City Stores Keep Holiday Today and Open Tomorrow

STORES in the city will be closed this afternoon, in observance of the customary Wednesday half-holiday.
They will open tomorrow, election day, at 10 o'clock, and thereafter will be open for business all day as usual. The late opening hour has been determined upon in order to permit the store employees to record their votes.
There will be no half-holiday here tomorrow as far as the retail stores are concerned.
These decisions were reached yesterday at a meeting of leading merchants of the city.

Party Leader, on Eve of Election Sends Personal Message of Victory

Kitchener, Ont., 6:20 P.M., Oct. 27, 1925.
The Colonist, Victoria, B.C.

As the hour of polling approaches the tide of victory is growing stronger.

Confidence reigns everywhere from farthest east to farthest west.

ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

Unbounded Confidence In Conservative Victory Is Keynote of Election

Triumphant Result of Tomorrow's Polling From East to West of Dominion Anticipated by Rt. Hon. Mr.
Meighen—Clear Majority of From 15 to 20 Seats
Foreseen by Dominion Organizer

Clean-Up in British Columbia Expected; Record Majority Seen for Dr. Tolmie

SUPREME confidence in the success of the Conservative forces at the polls tomorrow is expressed in messages received by The Colonist from Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, and Conservative candidates and party workers in British Columbia.
A close scrutiny of newspapers received from all parts of Canada yesterday also bears out the Conservative conviction that the affairs of Canada will, for the next four years, be administered by a Conservative Government on a policy of "Canada First." There is a "spirit of change" in the air.

Polling Places in City and District

POLLING stations in this city for the Dominion election tomorrow are located as follows:
Ward One—573 Johnson Street.
Ward Two—Scott Building, corner Douglas Street and Hillside Avenue.
Ward Three—Institute Hall, 726 View Street, between Douglas and Blanshard Streets.
Ward Four—Christ Church Cathedral Sunday School, 914
Quadra Street.
Ward Five—Old Drill Hall, Menzie Street.
Oak Bay
South of the Avenue—Oak Bay Avenue and Poul Bay Road.
North of the Avenue—Willows Park Restaurant.
Lequima
Rex Theatre.
Ward One—Cedar Hill School.
Ward Two—Tolmie School.
Ward Three—Gordon Head
Hall.
Ward Four—Marigold Hall.
Ward Five—Royal Oak School.
Ward Six—Temperance Hall, Keating.
Ward Seven—Tillamook School.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen, in a telegram to The Colonist, dispatched yesterday from Kitchener, Ont., said:
"As the hour of polling approaches, the tide of victory is growing stronger. Confidence reigns everywhere from the farthest East to the farthest West." (Signed) Arthur Meighen.

Clear Majority Expected
Hon. Dr. R. F. Tolmie, Dominion organizer of the Conservative party, before his departure for Mission,
B.C., following the local Conservative rally, Monday night, said:
"According to latest reports from the East and Midlands, the Conservative party will have a clear majority in the next House of Commons of from fifteen to twenty seats. This estimate does not take into consideration a number of seats still locked upon as doubtful."
Mr. C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate in the Nanaimo riding, Vancouver Island, said:
"I expect again to represent the people of Nanaimo riding in the Dominion House of Commons. There will be this difference, however, this time, I will represent them in the Government."

Mr. Thomas Collicott, Conservative candidate for Comox-Alberni, said:
"I expect to win. The campaign has been a strenuous one for me, what with a miniature train and that same miniature train my ambitions."
"If elected I am sure that I will be on the Government side of the House."

Four Wins in Vancouver Four Conservative victories in Vancouver are predicted by Mr. J. E.
Merryfield, of the Terminal City, Provincial organizer for the Conservative party. Mr. Merryfield declared that each of the Conservative candidates contesting Vancouver, Hon. H. H.
Stevens, Vancouver Centre; Mr. Leon Ladner, Vancouver South; Brigadier-General Clark Burrard, and Mr.
H. Merden, Vancouver North, would win by good-sized majorities.
"My informants in all ridings of British Columbia are sending rejoicingly optimistic reports," Mr.
Merryfield added. "We look for at least seven seats out of the total of thirty."

Greece Obeys League Order To Stop War

Troops Instructed to Evacuate Bulgarian Territory
Today—Athens to Comply

Investigation Body to Determine Cause of Border Fight, Responsibility, and Methods of Prevention

VIENNA, Oct. 27.—Sofia reports officially that despite mutual arrangements between Greece and Bulgaria and the ultimatum of the council of the League of Nations, Greece troops had not ceased firing at noon today.

ATHENS, Oct. 27.—Orders have been issued by the Greek Government for the evacuation of Bulgarian territory tomorrow. This official announcement was made this afternoon.

The Greek Government in reply to the council of the League of Nations, undertaken to conform to the council's requirements "as to give renewed proof of Greece's desire for peace."

A military commission proceeded today to Demetripoli and was met there by a Bulgarian officer to attend for evacuation of the territory.

League to Send Commission
PARIS, Oct. 27.—The council of the League of Nations will send a commission to the Balkans to investigate the causes of the Greco-Bulgarian conflict. This decision was reached at a secret session of the council tonight, but the programme as outlined is contingent upon compliance by Greece and Bulgaria with the conditions of evacuation and cessation of hostilities laid down by the council.

The duty of the commission will be first to determine the facts, second, determine the responsibility;
third, decide the question of indemnity; and fourth, study means to prevent recurrence of similar outbreaks in future. A report of the findings will be submitted at the next session of the council at Geneva in December.

Canada Has Reached Third Crisis And Electors Must Decide Course

Mr. C. H. Dickie, Conservative Candidate in Nanaimo Riding, Tells Oak Bay Audience Some of Ills From Which Country Is Suffering Under Liberal Rule

MR. C. H. DICKIE, Conservative candidate in the riding of Na-naimo, brought his campaign to a close in the Oak Bay district last night, when he addressed a meeting in St. Mary's Hall. The gathering was not a particularly large one, but Mr.
Dickie was given a very attentive hearing. Mr. R. H. Pooley, Conservative leader in British Columbia, and Captain H. W. R. Moore, also spoke.
The Nanaimo candidate prefaced his address with a brief history of the development and decline of the iron and steel industry of Great Britain, and the recent tremendous development of the iron and steel industry in the United States. He declared that Britain some years ago was supplying the United States with iron and steel products in huge quantities, and probably would be continuing to supply that country if the United States Government had not stopped importation by the building of a prohibitive tariff wall. Under the protection thus afforded, iron and steel mills of the United States had not stopped importation forward until today, he said, the industry was one of the largest in the world and was supplying not only the home market of the United States, but many world markets.

Good for One and All
Mr. Dickie argued that if the policy of high protection had been good for the iron and steel industry of the United States, then it was good for other branches of industry, and it afforded a good example for Canada to copy. In order to cause development of industry in Canada, industry must be protected from unfair competition, he said, and the home market must be preserved to it exclusively. The various policies of the Mackenzie Government during the past four years had done much to undermine Canadian commerce and industry. Capital had grown nervous regarding investment in any sort of Canadian enterprise, except the exploitation of Canadian natural resources, and a state had been reached where the country must either have stabilization or must cease to exist as an independent country.

He traced three great crises in Canadian history. The first, he said, had occurred in the early days when lack of protection for Canadian industry had put Canadian factories out of business and the Canadian home market had been swamped with American-made machinery, wagons

French Cabinet Overthrown by Finance Crisis

President Doumergue Now
Picking New Premier—M.
Painleve Likely to Be Own Successor

PARIS, Oct. 27.—M. Painleve's Ministry, which was constituted April 18 last, and took up the administration of France's complicated affairs to succeed the Herriot Cabinet, ended its career today when the Premier submitted his resignation and that of his colleagues to President Doumergue.

The fall of the Ministry was due to M. Caillaux's financial policy, and his resistance to a capital levy, to which
M. Painleve rallied after the Radical convention at Nice had adopted a resolution favoring it. A difficult political crisis, one of the most difficult in its history, now faces the French Republic.

Stiff Task Before President
President Doumergue has the task of picking a man to form a new government without a reliable majority in support of it. The President hurried formalities incident to the formation of the new Cabinet, conferring this afternoon with most persons usually consulted in a Cabinet crisis and dwelling chiefly on the financial situation in his talks.

M. Caillaux was the first to be received by M. Doumergue after the collapse of a most unusual procedure. The Minister of Finance, however, was not summoned for the purpose of consulting with him regarding the new Ministry; he was received at his own request, taking with him a voluminous file of documents.

The Presidents of the Senate and Chamber, M. de Seives and M. Herriot, and the chairman of the financial commissions of the Senate and the Chamber, were later called before the President and questioned by him respecting the situation.

Halfbreed Must Hang January 14 For Rossi Death

"Sonny" White Is Found Guilty of Murdering Storekeeper at North Vancouver Last June

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—Charles Henry "Sonny" White, twenty-three-year-old Indian halfbreed resident of the North Shore, was tonight found guilty by a jury in assize court, of murder of Frank Rossi, North Vancouver storekeeper, on the night of June 23 last, and was sentenced to hang on January 14 next.

The crime for which White must suffer the death penalty was a most brutal one, the victim being beaten and hacked to death. The body of Rossi, found next morning by a milkman, was lying in a room back of his store, in which he lived, and the condition of the body and the interior of the store had taken place. Rossi evidently having been struck several times with an axe in the hands of his murderer. Robbery is believed to have been the motive as Rossi was in the habit of keeping large sums of money about him.

White was trailed by bloodhounds to the waterfront. The evidence brought out the fact that he had crossed to Vancouver in a canoe late that night. He spent the rest of the night and next day in Vancouver with friends, spending money lavishly.
He was arrested within forty-eight hours of the crime and charged with murder.

Police Not to Flatter
He-Flappers With Arrest But to Spank 'em

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Oct. 27.— Bellingham's young "cakeeaters" and madcaps, who annoy young women will be treated to liberal use of the paddle henceforth, Chief of Police N. J. East announced today. Officers who catch "he-flappers" in the act will be given the option of carrying paddles or using the palms of their hands.

"After this," said the chief,
"we won't flatter these male butterflies with arrest—we're going to spank 'em."

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—Falling from a "spar tree" at the Heaton & Hemsworth Lumber Company camp at Port McNeill, Vancouver Island, Carl Peterson, superintendent of operations, was killed yesterday.

New Fraser Dam Wrecked by River

Strong Waters Cause $40,000 Damage to New Federal Undertaking

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 27.—
Unable to resist the pressure of the Fraser River currents, the partially constructed dam being built for the Dominion Government near Wood-wards Landing on the ship channel of the river, has been wrecked, causing a loss estimated at nearly $40,000, according to word received here by C.
C. Worfield, resident engineer of the Federal Department of Public Works.
No loss of life has occurred. It is stated.

Contract for the structure was let last spring for $73,000. When completed it was to have been 2,800 feet in length and nine feet high above water, and was to serve as a barrage to divert a large volume of water from the banks of the river into the channel.

The Japanese steamer Hainan, Maru, with stores and munitions for the Chinese squadron, was seized and six Chinese who had chartered the steamer were arrested. The squadron had planned to desert the Penglin
and join the Yangtze insurgents.

Sea Gives Up Year-Old Message From Crew of Lost B.C. Vessel

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—What may prove to be a message from men who died at sea nearly a year ago, was picked up off Wark Island
Graham Reach, October 24, by D.
Cordilla, of Tuleale, who found a bottle containing a note purporting to come from the lost coaster Havaport No. 2, which disappeared with all hands in Milbank Sound during a storm on January 28, 1924.
The ship was proceeding north with a cargo of explosives for one of the Liberal Party Bids for Labor Aid in Britain

Official Offer of Co-operation Apparently Made at Meeting Presided Over by Earl of Oxford

LONDON, Oct. 27.—What is apparently an official bid of the Liberals for co-operation between the Liberal and Labor parties was made last night at a Liberal meeting under the chairmanship of the Earl of Oxford and Aquitaine, the party leader.

The speaker was Prof. Gilbert Murray, who claimed close affinities between the Liberals and Labor, and said the Socialist tenets of the Laborites troubled him very little because state action was bound to increase with the developments of society.

If the expulsion of the Communists from the Labor party, so forcibly pronounced by Ramsay MacDonald at the recent Liverpool congress was successful, the natural consequence, he believed, would be a gradual rapprochment between Labor and Liberals. He suggested as the best plan a Liberal government with a Labor wing and an second best a Labor government with a Liberal wing. Lord Aquith cordially endorsed the speech.

It is recalled that Laborites up to the present have emphatically repudiated any idea of co-operating with the Liberals.

Japanese Ship Seized

TSING TAO, China, Oct. 27.—The Japanese steamer Hainan, Maru,
with stores and munitions for the Chinese squadron, was seized and six Chinese who had chartered the
steamer were arrested. The squadron
had planned to desert the Penglin
and join the Yangtze insurgents.

None of the bodies of those on board were recovered.
Mr. Cordilla reports that the note reads: "We are wrecked at Milbank Sound. No escape from drowning.
Signed, Steamer Havaport."

Two Are Gassed In Automobile

Montreal Couple, Stalled in Mud, Kept Engine Going to Keep Warm

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Oct. 27.—
A Mr. and Mrs. Davis, of Montreal, were found dead of asphyxiation in their automobile near Spinktop, forty-five miles south of here, today.
Their car had been stalled in the heavy mud and they had left the engine running to keep warm, dying of monoxide gas poisoning after falling asleep.

Papers found among their effects indicated that Mr. Davis was in the banking business in Montreal.

Three of Crew Lost From Rescued Ship

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 27.—With three members of her crew missing,
the schooner J. O. Webster, Capt.
John N.B. for Miami, Florida, was towed into harbor here tonight by the coastguard cutter Red Wing, which found the vessel today disabled about 100 miles northeast of Peaked Hill Bar. The missing men include Stanley Bradford, son of the captain of the schooner.

Caught in Machinery, Mill Worker Killed

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—His clothing catching in machinery on which he was working, Fred Malpas was instantly killed at the Stanley Lumber Company plant here today. His body was badly mutilated when whirled about before the belt in which it was caught could be stopped.

Postmaster Feared Drowned

CROFTON, B.C., Oct. 27.—Traced by bloodhounds to the banks of the Skeena River, it is feared that Charles Slater, postmaster here missing for several days, was drowned while on a hunting trip.

Eighteen Killed In Train Wreck

Fifty-Four Others Injured in Railway Disaster in Southern United States

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 27.—The leath list as a result of the devastating near Victoria, Miss., early today of the Bunnlyland, fast St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad passenger train, tonight stood at eighteen.
A total of fifty-four persons still in hospitals, eighteen reported in a critical condition, thirty-seven are white and seventeen negroes. Hospital reports indicated that the condition of eight of the white injured was critical. The recovery of ten of the negro injured also was regarded as doubtful.

Railroad officials tonight reported the wreckage cleared from the right of way and traffic resumed.

An inviolable defect in a ninety-six pound steel rail was held responsible for the wreck.

Absolve Logger Of Manslaughter Nanaimo Jurors

George Lungnan Found Not Guilty of Causing Death of Companion in Automobile Smash

NANAIMO, Oct. 27.—George Lungnan, logger, charged with the manslaughter of Carl Kiyonen, another logger, as the result of an automobile crash, August 15, was acquitted by the jury at the assizes which opened here this morning before Mr. Justice Murphy.

The jury added a rider to the verdict that it recommended the sharp curve on Royton Road near the highway where the fatal accident occurred be safeguarded with a whitewashed fence. His Lordship said he would notify the authorities at Victoria of the recommendation.

The fatality occurred when the car in which Lungnan and Kiyonen were traveling, left the road.

Four other cases against the Nanaimo dockets, Rex vs. Olsar and King, charged with the murder of an Indian named Jamieson at Clayoquot; Rex vs. William Kest, charged with seduction; Rex vs. Hagley, charged with complicity in the robbery of the Royal Bank in Nanaimo on December 12 last, and Rex vs. Ross C. Watson, also charged with bank robbery, the last case having been traversed from the last assize.

Owing to the fact that the Dominion election takes place on Thursday, and also to impossibility of obtaining all witnesses for the crown, the assizes will be adjourned on Wednesday night until Monday morning, when the Bagley or Watson case is expected to be proceeded with.

and farm implements. The National policy evolved and put into force by the great Conservative leader, Sir John A. Macdonald, had put the country back into a condition of prosperity by fostering the development of industry under protection. In the days before the National policy, conditions in Canada were very similar to those which had existed during the past four years, Mr. Dickie said. Thousands of Canadians had been forced to go to the United States in order to secure work.

Canada at Crossroads. The second crisis was the Great War. Again the Conservative party had come to the defence of Canada, and through its strong policies had enabled the Dominion to carry out a "win-the-war" policy.

The third and last crisis, he declared, was the one which existed at the present time through the four years of misrule by the Liberal Government at Ottawa. Canada was today at the crossroads and the people must make their choice. Under the Liberal Government, the country had been brought to the verge of ruin. The Conservative party, he declared, was now the only party that was based on the same principles as the National policy of Sir John A. Macdonald and later followed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Dealing specifically with some of the policies of the Mackenzie King Government, which had brought Canada to the position which was in at present, Mr. Dickie asserted that last year raw pulpwood to the value of $14,000,000 had been exported to the United States. In that country it had been manufactured into articles worth $10,000,000. Last year, Canada exported $17,000,000 of raw asbestos rock to the United States. Manufactured in that country the raw asbestos was converted into articles worth $17,000,000. From the Province of British Columbia, 240,000,000 feet of raw saw-logs were exported to mills in Washington and Oregon States last year, Mr. Dickie continued. During the year, shipments of manufactured lumber from British Columbia to Australia had decreased by 40-50 per cent, while during the same time, sawmills of Washington and Oregon had increased their shipments of lumber to Australia by 50,000,000 feet.

Conservative Policy. Those were conditions, the speaker said, that would not occur under the policy of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and the Conservative party. The Conservative policy was to conserve Canadian resources and raw materials for development and manufacture within the borders of Canada by the people of Canada.

He told of the denudation of the timber lands of the states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota through a policy of unrestricted exploitation, and he characterized as a fallacy the contention that the timber and pulpwood

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for cough cures.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or treacle instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membrane, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear. It's really a most effective remedy for colds, whooping cough, croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its health-giving properties.

Avoid cheap imitations by adding your drugstore for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute relief. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Two Minutes' Silence Will Be Observed On Armistice Day

HIS Majesty has approved the same arrangements for the observance of Armistice Day, November 11, as were adopted a year ago, with a two-minute silence at 11 o'clock. This announcement is transmitted to the Lieutenant-Governor for application in British Columbia, as has been the practice since Armistice Day, 1918.

now being cut from Canadian lands was being reproduced on a ratio equal to the exploitation.

Mr. Dickie recorded himself in favor of state health insurance, but he said, such measures must wait until the condition of Canada had been made such that native sons and daughters were not forced to seek livelihoods in a foreign country. Canadians, because of the natural richness of their country, were entitled to prosperity, and bad government was the only preventive in the way of their attaining their due.

Mr. R. H. Pooley.

Mr. Pooley, Conservative leader in British Columbia, told how United States firms were able to underbid Canadian and British manufacturers of machinery and other commodities. Because of protection they maintained for themselves, without competition from their own home market. They could, therefore, afford to cut profits on goods shipped to foreign markets, Canada and Great Britain, he said, were forced through free trade policies not only to compete in the world markets, but in their home markets as well.

Relative to the exploitation of Canadian pulpwood forests for the benefit of United States mills, Mr. Pooley declared that the wood used to make newspaper for one issue of The New York Times would cover seven acres of land. Canadian forests were not by any means inexhaustible and such a rate of usage would utterly deplete them in ten years' time.

The speaker charged the Liberal Government with making a govt. of the Canadian farmer through the Australian treaty. The treaty, he pointed out, went into effect on October 2, and he received reliable information that already there was a shipment of 30,000 dozens of Australian eggs on its way to Vancouver.

The Australian eggs, which were graded as fresh extras, would be laid down in Vancouver for forty-eight cents a dozen and would enter into direct competition with the higher grades of eggs being offered by British Columbia producers. Such eggs, he said, were quoted in Vancouver at a dozen for 50 cents. The Australian eggs were being produced under the most favorable conditions, when production costs were at their lowest. Under the treaty they entered the Canadian market duty free, but later on, when British Columbia eggs could be produced under cheap conditions, the Australian market would be closed because, under the treaty, Canadian eggs entering Australia must pay a duty of eight cents a dozen. Mr. Pooley predicted that when Australian butter commenced to enter the British Columbia market under the discriminatory terms contained in the treaty, local producers would again have the strange wisdom of the Liberal Government brought home to them.

Captain H. W. R. Moore.

Captain Moore confined his address almost exclusively to an exposition of Liberal arguments and claims in connection with the freight rates controversy. When Mr. William Ivel, or other speakers, advocated equalization of rates as a means of bringing immediate prosperity to the people of British Columbia, they were either trying to misrepresent conditions to the people, or they were showing lamentable ignorance. The mountain differential rates did not apply to 87 per cent of all British Columbia freight moving eastward, which enjoyed low commodity rates, which were lower than the same class of freight moving in Eastern Canada. For instance, he said, if equalization were brought into force and the special commodity rates wiped out, British Columbia shippers of fresh fruits would be forced to pay 52½ cents more per 100 pounds to Winnipeg than at present. Shippers of canned goods would have to pay 47½ cents per 100 pounds more to Winnipeg and 54½ cents more to Fort William. Shippers of lumber would have to pay an increase of 17½ cents to Winnipeg and 31 cents increase from British Columbia to Toronto. This latter figure, he said, was particularly important as it represented in the neighborhood of $10 per thousand feet. Under the present low commodity rate, British Columbia lumber could compete successfully in Ontario with southern pine shipped in from the United States.

Captain Moore touched briefly on the tariff issue and claimed that because of the fact that Canadian wages were set to a great extent by the United States, protection was an absolute necessity in order to protect the low-wage workers of Europe.

Mr. Herbert Carmichael was chairman.

Time Limit Expires. The time limit of twenty-four hours, within which the Greek and Bulgarian Governments may order the cessation of all fighting and return all troops to the respective frontiers, expired at 8 o'clock this evening, and the council will reconvene tomorrow morning to deliberate on the replies, which are confidently expected to embody compliance with the demands.

Nevertheless the League's executive body will not be satisfied until its primary object have duly reported that all troops have in fact evacuated and all warlike measures abandoned.

M. Briand, president of the council, again warned the representatives of the combatants today that reliable information had been received that the cannon were still thundering. The indications are strong that France and Great Britain are acting as one in the present effort to increase the prestige and power of the League of Nations and make it an effective instrument for peace.

There are also signs that, without directly blaming Greece, the members of the council are attaching the greatest importance to the fact that the Greek army invaded Bulgaria to a depth of eight kilometres (about five miles) while the Bulgarians, even on the say-so of the Greeks themselves, encroached no more than 500 metres (about a third of a mile) upon Hellenic territory.

As the severance of economic and financial relations, which the covenant provides against a warring nation, would require too long a time to put in operation, there is new insistence in League circles tonight that the council might order a naval blockade of Athens, should the Greek government defy the council's mandate.

Blame Each Other.

Continuing today to blame the other country for starting the Balkan trouble, both Greek and Bulgarian representatives told the council that they wanted reparations. M. Carapanos, for Greece, insisted that the real reason why Bulgaria was having trouble with her neighbors was that she had been unable to comply with the disarmament clauses of the Treaty of Neuilly, which made it possible for roving bands of irregulars to provoke conflicts.

He denied that Greece had committed hostile acts "likely to lead to a rupture," within the meaning of the covenant because the Greek troops had merely acted on the defensive.

The Bulgarian spokesman characterized the Greek advance as an unjustifiable aggression particularly unfortunate and untimely at the moment the Locarno security negotiations had been crowned with victory and Europe had entered upon a new era of tranquility.

Unbounded Confidence In Conservative Victory Is Keynote of Election

fourteen and it is a strong probability that we will carry the Kootenay ridings, where Hon. Dr. J. H. King, the Liberal Minister of Public Works, is running.

Mr. R. H. Pooley, Conservative leader in the Provincial Legislature, and Vancouver Island representative on the Federal campaign committee, declared last night that all indications pointed to a clean-up in British Columbia tomorrow. Out-and-out Liberal candidates, pseudo-independent candidates and candidates of liberal persuasion traveling under election war-paint such as Labor, Progressive, were due for disaster.

Record Majority Indicated.

Major Gus Lyons, M.P.P., campaign manager for Hon. Dr. Toimie in Victoria, declares that all signs point to a record majority for the Conservative candidate here tomorrow.

Capt. W. J. Cox, campaign manager for Mr. Dickie in Nanaimo riding, was just as optimistic regarding the prospects for his principal. His optimism was supported by Col. C. W. Peck, V.C., member in the Provincial Legislature for the Islands riding, who has been one of the hardest campaigners for Mr. Dickie. Col. Peck maintained that Mr. Dickie's re-election was certain and that the only question now was in connection with his majority.

M. H. Despard TWIGG, M.P.P., Victoria, who has recently returned from Comox-Alberni, where he took an active part in the campaign for Mr. Thomas Coldicutt, declared that old-time Liberals were gathering to the support of the Conservative candidate and the Conservative policy. He looked for a close fight between Mr. Coldicutt and Mr. A. W. Neill, Independent, but he believed the Conservative candidate would win out.

regarding the financial situation, and all expressed hope that the situation would be cleared quickly.

M. Painleve likely to be Re-elected. The President will see M. Caillaux, president of the Radical group, tomorrow morning, after which it is expected he will summon the man chosen to form the new Government. The general impression is that it will be M. Painleve.

The Premier in the new combination will likely have the collaboration or active support of M. Herriot, and M. Briand probably will be asked to remain as Minister of Foreign Affairs. When inquiries were made this evening about his health, M. Briand responded "there is nothing the matter with me but a nose bleed, which was insignificant. But it might be regarded as an invitation to rest."

The meetings held by the different political groups of the Chamber this afternoon developed a wide divergence of views as to the solution of the crisis, showing that the new Cabinet, however constituted, will have to manoeuvre delicately to find a majority.

New Election Possible. There was much talk of a political stalemate which would require dissolution of the Chamber and new elections in order to bring out a majority to support the government.

The Socialists are charged by other groups with manoeuvring to force new elections under the present proportional representation system in the hope of gaining enough seats in the Chamber to make them the predominant group and enable them to take power. They are now numerically the second party in the Lower House with 105 seats as compared with 145 for the Radicals and 104 for the National bloc. They count upon selecting 180 members if new elections occur under the present system.

Debt Failure Hurts France.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The failure of M. Caillaux's debt mission to Washington and not speculation because the recent drop in the exchange value of the franc, prominent members of the French banking world, including the president of the Exchange Brokers' Association, today told Magistrate De Tallie, who, under M. Caillaux's orders, had started an investigation with a view to the prosecution of alleged speculators.

The witness pointed out that French manufacturers and exporters delayed buying dollars and pounds because they hoped that a successful outcome of the Washington debt negotiations would drive down American and British currency. When the negotiations fell short of success they were obliged

ISLAND CONSTITUENCIES

Vancouver Island in the last Federal Parliament was represented by two Conservative members and one Independent, the latter voting nearly always on the side of the Liberals. All indications are that the sentiment of this portion of the Dominion is predominantly conservative in the present election campaign. To our way of estimating the situation it is of the utmost importance that the verdict of the Island should be against the Government in power. No doubts are entertained of the reelection of Dr. S. F. Tolmie in Victoria, but it is as well there should be an overwhelming majority given in his favor. It is at least equally certain that Mr. C. H. Dickie will carry the Nanaimo seat. He has engaged in an active campaign, has been a member whose usefulness is known to all, and he has the advantage of an experience at Ottawa which he has profited by an excellent manner of keen interest to the people of the Nanaimo riding. Mr. Dickie stands for stability in Government, stable stands for the protective policy which is so essential to the country's economic salvation. He stands for the conservation of Canada's resources and their utilization for the country's needs. In this crisis, when Canada, as it were, is at the parting of the ways, there should be no question of how the people of Nanaimo will vote.

In Comox-Alberni, Mr. T. D. Collicutt, the Conservative candidate, is a newcomer in the Federal arena. He has made a strenuous campaign and created a most favorable impression. He has as a factor on his side the wave of sentiment which is flooding British Columbia and the Dominion in favor of a return to the Conservative economic policies which laid the foundations and built up the structure of Canada's fiscal well being. His opponent, Mr. Neill, although running under the guise of an Independent is known to favor Liberal policies. He has been an accomplice of Mr. Mackenzie King in the policy of drift of the past four years. He is a participant, therefore, in conditions which have created unrest and such widespread complaint. Mr. Collicutt, on the other hand, is a Conservative and will support those policies which experience has shown are best calculated to re-establish domestic prosperity. The people of Comox-Alberni can make no mistake in their decision if they are concerned about the course necessary to be taken to bring about an economic revival. Vancouver Island is staunchly Conservative at heart, and particularly so in Federal politics. So that the Island may be a unit in its representation in the next House of Commons the hope is expressed that Mr. Collicutt will be sent back to Ottawa to join Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Dickie as a Conservative trio from this farthest West in support of the Government of Mr. Arthur Meighen.

DR. SIMON F. TOLMIE

The Conservative candidate, Dr. Simon F. Tolmie, is one of the best known public men who has ever served the interests of Victoria. Since he entered politics he has become known throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion and during latter years he has traveled through the country acquainting himself extensively with conditions and studying what is for the best in the nation's development. He is appealing again for the support of the citizens of his native city, and if we know those citizens he will receive it in large measure; in fact, we believe that on this occasion they will seize upon the opportunity of placing the hall mark of their endorsement on both the candidate and the policies which he espouses in the present election contest.

Dr. Tolmie was first elected in Victoria as a Union candidate during the war year of 1917. His worth was speedily recognized at Ottawa and within two years he had been appointed to the portfolio of Agriculture. This was a post for which he was eminently fitted because of his lengthy acquaintance with the industry in Canada, and because, too, he is a farmer himself with a long period of hard work to his credit. He enhanced his reputation for political sagacity while in the Cabinet, so much so indeed that he is assured of a Cabinet position in the event of the Conservatives triumphing in tomorrow's contest. The chances of this happening are so bright that Victorians will have an added incentive in paying their tribute at the polls to their popular member of the last eight years.

The record of service for Victoria and vicinity for which Dr. Tolmie has been responsible is a lengthy one. He has worked assiduously both as a private member and as a Cabinet Minister for the advancement of the community where his lifetime's efforts have been centered. Always a supporter of the Greater Harbor improvements at this port, he was responsible for securing a vote of $50,000 for the provision of a freight shed at Pier No. 2 of the Ogden Point improvements. He was an earnest advocate of the extension of the Canadian National lines on Vancouver Island, and he worked heartily and enthusiastically, in co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce, in connection with the effort to secure elevators here and in collecting facts and figures about a coaling plant, ferry slips and a lumber assembly plant in connection with the Greater Harbor improvements.

Dr. Tolmie earned a reputation outside Canada for the able manner in which he presented this Dominion's attitude on the cattle embargo question before the Commission appointed by the British Government to inquire into the subject. His plea in this respect was stated by the British press to be the best presentation of the case made in England. It was good enough to lead to a decision in favor of Canada, a decision which the British Government was guided by in finally lifting the embargo. In matters affecting the building of the Esquimalt drydock, the dredging of the harbor and in supporting the principle of the equalization of freight rates as far back as October 6, 1920, Dr. Tolmie has always been active in the interests of his constituency and always consistent in his policies and in support of the leadership, first of Sir Robert Borden and afterwards of his successor, Mr. Arthur Meighen. His efforts on behalf of individuals, and particularly in the claims of returned men in regard to pensions, are known to many and have earned him wide appreciation.

A vote for Dr. Tolmie is a vote for all that the Conservative Party stands for; which, in the domestic issues of the present campaign, may be summed up as "Canada for the Canadians." It is a vote for the protection of our industries, the creation of employment and the putting of a period to the exodus of our citizens to the United States. We ask every individual who believes in these policies not to permit the certainty of Dr. Tolmie's election to interfere with their going to the polls. He should be given a sweeping majority of thousands so as to show both the country at large and Mr. Arthur Meighen, the leader of the Conservatives, what is the estimate of our future Cabinet Minister's worth held by Victorians. Above all, Dr. Tolmie represents in the present election for Victorians the National Policy, that policy to which a full return is necessary in the light of the economic situation. Victoria's verdict, therefore, should be sound and enthusiastic, and to make it so every one who can possibly do so, and who is entitled to the franchise, should go to the polls tomorrow and help to swell the majority of the Conservative Party.

WOMEN VOTERS

One feature of the election we believe will be the power and strength of the women's vote. There are those who claim that the election campaign has been marked by apathy. They will have their answer, we are assured, in the fact that on the basis of the present strength of the voters' lists there will be the greatest muster of Canadian voters at the polls in the history of the country. It is possible for the women's vote to exceed the men's and there is a clear compelling duty for them to go to the polls on the present occasion. The issue is one that comes closely home to every domestic hearth. It is an issue of freeseid politics. There are thousands of households in the Dominion; indeed, scores of thousands, from which sons and daughters have had to depart to seek their careers and livelihoods in a foreign land. There must be thousands of women in the country who never let a day pass without thinking of those who have had to leave their homes under the compulsion of a policy which has failed to conserve Canadian resources and industries for Canadians.

The women of our country, just as well if not better than the men folk, know that we have not been passing through prosperous conditions during the last four years. They know, too, the reason why, and, knowing, will not fail to do what they can at the polls to remedy the situation. To the women the restoration of the National Policy of Protection means very much. It means a greater buying power; it means employment for their bread-winners at home, and it means that the exodus of our manhood and womanhood to the United States will cease. The issue, therefore, is peculiarly one in which women are interested and it is certain that they will register that interest in a manner without parallel. Their votes can assist in bringing home their banished relatives. They can assist in restoring prosperity to the Dominion. They can give a mandate to the country for a new standard of economy in public life, and, above all, they can say emphatically that Canada's heritage is for the enjoyment and development of Canadians and their posterity.

We ask the women of Victoria, of Nanaimo and of Comox-Alberni to go to the polls tomorrow and say with emphatic voice that a change must be brought about in the economic policy of this Dominion. Their assistance is required in putting an end to the policy of drift which has been engineered by the Mackenzie King Government. We have a drifting population, drifting expenditures, a drifting railway policy, drifting tendencies towards the Americanization of the Dominion. The time has come for the women, and all others, to say that we must stand on our own feet and proclaim that our nationhood within the British Commonwealth of Nations is a reality and not a sham. That is not very much to ask the women of the country to assist in doing. It is the doctrine of self-respect, of growing prestige for the Dominion and of a new era of prosperity in the homes. The women of Canada and, therefore, of every constituency in the country will exercise a tremendous influence on the result of tomorrow's poll. In a measure, because of their new power in politics, the destiny of the Dominion lies in the hands of its womanhood and we are persuaded that they will exercise that power on the present occasion to write final to the Mackenzie King Government with its harmful proclivities.

THE VOTERS' LIST

On the 1921 Federal Voters' List for Victoria there were 19,829 names; on the 1925 list the number is approximately 16,138. This shows a falling off of close to 3,700 names between the two elections. It is not accounted for by any apathy that exists regarding the political situation. Unfortunately, the chief reason must be traced to many former residents having left the city, and that fact gives point and emphasis to the contention that population is decreasing rather than increasing under the regime of Mr. Mackenzie King. Some other explanations might be advanced to show why there has been such a falling off in the aggregate of names on the voters' list, but the outstanding one is that many hundreds of those who were on the 1921 list are no longer residents of Victoria. They have had to go elsewhere. Victorians do not want this situation to develop and on that account will, no doubt, vote for policies which will put an end to the exodus from the Dominion.

SETTLERS' EFFECTS

In 1921, under the Government of Mr. Arthur Meighen, the value of the settlers' effects which reached this country was $10,749,819. In 1924 the value of settlers' effects which left this country, belonging to persons who took part in the exodus of that year, was $10,795,941. If settlers' effects, in their value, give an idea of the number of settlers, then it would appear that more settlers left Canada during one year of Mr. Mackenzie King's Government than came into the country in twelve months of Mr. Meighen's administration. The figures are illuminative of the population and property losses Canada has been suffering.

Victoria citizens need no urging toward generosity in a worthy cause, and this note is merely by way of reminder. The vaudeville matinee at the Playhouse today is for the benefit of David Fraser, a crippled boy who has no longer the strength to propel the wheeled chair in which he sits. He went to take the air and see the sights of the city. Frequenters of the Public Library will remember seeing David, as he sat in his chair near the Playhouse corner, and watched the passing of more fortunate kiddies. He needs a new chair, one that is propelled by a special electric device, and a company of the city's amateur entertainers are giving their services this afternoon in order that he may have it. This is one of those worthy causes in behalf of which Victoria citizens need no urging toward generosity.

The Mackenzie King Government time and again has promised a policy of economy and the reduction of the national debt. Under that Government the railway debt which is part of the national debt had been enormously increased, in fact increased by upwards of $200,000,000. Apart from the railway debt, and with war time taxes maintained and bringing in $140,000,000 during the last fiscal year (1924-1925), the debt decrease was only $345,580. It is estimated that if the King policies were pursued it would be a century before there would be sufficient reduction in the debt to permit of any appreciable reduction in taxation.

Commenting on election prospects The Kingston Standard says: "The swing is decidedly towards the Conservatives and against the lower tariff tendencies of Mr. King and his followers as well as against their wobbling, inefficient Government. It is not surprising under the circumstances that the prediction is now generally made that the Conservatives will easily have a majority over all other parties in the next Dominion Parliament."

The Liberal candidate in Victoria in another campaign dodges says that a vote for Mr. Meighen is a vote for high freight rates for the West. Where there is a campaign of such subterfuge it is engineered by a counsel of despair.

Some 22,000 native sons of British Columbia are now resident in the United States. If we want to double their number a vote for Mr. Mackenzie King will accomplish the result.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

That plant of marvellous vitality and productivity, the blackberry, is still yielding of its fruit, although the Summer is at an end and hard-forged Winter will soon be knocking at the door. Hard-forged Winter, we note, has already knocked at the door and has taken possession of the premises in the less favored parts of this otherwise highly-favored continent.

Yes, temperamental persons tell us that the grey, drab, dreary days are upon us. The rains have begun to descend. The season that is known in this part of the world as the rainy season has arrived. Our Winter season is not, strictly speaking, a rainy season at all. The rainfall in this part of British Columbia during the so-called rainy season is not as heavy as it is in many parts of Great Britain and America during the period of "soft" weather. But our Summer days are so bright and sunny and the season of golden sunshine is so long that we suppose the Winter is described as the rainy season because it so aptly distinguishes the two principal seasons of the year from one another.

Prosaic and practical people are unforgottenly delighted with the break in the weather. On Monday those people actually sang in their hearts as they walked along the roads and felt the soft caresses of the raindrops upon their faces. The parched earth greedily drank the water as it fell, and gave thanks to the clouds for their beneficence. Wells that had gone dry and reservoirs that had been drained of their stored contents began to fill up. Nature was again busy adjusting her balances.

Everybody and everything welcomed the change, with the possible exception of the poets, who cannot sing on grey, drab and dreary days. As we sat by the window and watched the descending rain we began to wonder what our special lark that sings at the second tea thought about the advent of the new season. As it happened we had in our hands a book lent us by a friend. This work contained a series of essays written by an author who was unknown to us until a few weeks ago. Turning over the leaves our attention was caught by the title of one of the essays. That title was "A Lark's Flight." Here, we thought, is something that should make suitable reading for a rainy day. We began to read and discovered as we read that the essay, while perfect in literary style and of absorbing interest, was not exactly what may be described as cheerful reading for a dreary day.

"Rightly or wrongly, during the last twenty or thirty years, a strong feeling has grown up in the public mind against the principle, and a still stronger feeling against the practice, of capital punishment. Many people who will admit that the execution of the murderer may be, abstractly considered, just enough, sincerely doubt whether such execution be expedient, and are in their own minds perfectly certain that it cannot fail to demoralize the spectators." (All executions were "public functions" at the time the essay was written.)

"In consequence of this, executions have become rare; and it is quite clear that many a scoundrel, well worthy of the noose, contrive to escape it. . . . Of course, neither the justice nor the expediency of capital punishment falls to be discussed here. This, however, may be said, that the popular feeling against them may not be so admirable a proof of enlightenment as many believe. It is true that the spectacle is painful, horrible; but in pain and horror there is often hidden a certain salutaryness, and the repulsion of which we are conscious is as likely to arise from debilitation of the public nerve as from a higher reach of public feeling. To my thinking, it is out of this pain and hatredness that an execution becomes invested with an ideal grandeur. It is sheer horror to all concerned. . . . but out of this, and towering behind the vulgar and hideous accessories of the scaffold, gleams the majesty of implacable law.

"Now, when the law has become so far merciful; when the punishment of death is reserved for the murderer; when he can be condemned only on the clearest evidence; when, as the days draw slowly on to doom, the frightful event impending over one stricken wretch throws its shadow over the heart of every man, woman and child in the great city; and when the official persons whose duty it is to see the letter of the law carried out perform that at the expense of personal pain—a public execution is not vulgar, it becomes positively sublime. It is dreadful, of course; but its dreadfulness melts into pure awfulness. The attention is taken off the criminal, and is lost in a sense of the grandeur of justice.

"Nothing interests men so much as death. Age cannot wither it nor custom stale it. . . . Yet, taken as a whole, criminals on the scaffold comport themselves creditably. They look Death in the face when he wears his cruellest aspect, and if they flinch somewhat, they can at least bear to look. I believe that, for the criminal, execution within the prison walls, with no witnesses save some half dozen official persons, would be infinitely more terrible than execution in the presence of a curious, glaring mob. The daylight and the publicity are alien elements, which wear the man a little from himself. He steadies his dizzy brain on the crowd beneath and around him. He has his last part to play, and his manhood rallies to play it well. Nay, so subtly is vanity intertwined with our motives, the noblest and the most ignoble, that I can fancy a poor wretch with the noose dangling at his ear, and with but a few moments to live, soothed somewhat with the idea that his firmness and composure will earn him the approbation, perhaps the pity, of the spectators.

"More than twenty years ago I saw two men executed, and the impression then made lingered to this day. When the men appeared beneath the beam, each under his proper halter, there was dead silence. Everyone was gazing too intently to whisper to his neighbor even. Just then, out of the grassy space at the foot of the scaffold, in the dead silence audible to all, a lark rose from the side of its nest, and went singing upward in its happy flight. O heaven! how did that song translate itself into dying ears? Did it bring in one wild burning moment father, and mother, and poor Irish cabin, and prayers said at bedtime, and the smell of turf fires, and innocent sweetheating, and rising and setting suns?

"There is a sharp sound, and I feel the great crowd heave and swing, and I hear it torn by a sharp shiver of pity, and the men I saw so near but a moment ago are at an immeasurable distance, and have solved the great enigma—and the lark has not yet finished his flight. You can see and hear him yonder in the fringe of a white May cloud."

Do You Vote?
You say that taxes are too high.
But do you vote?
About extravagance you sigh,
But do you vote?
"How long," you wail, "must we endure
This state of things that keeps us poor?"
How long? I do not know, I'm sure.
But do you vote?
The lights are bad, the streets a mess.
But do you vote?
Your indignation you express,
But do you vote?
You say that bosses rule the show,
That graft is reaching high and low,
And, doubtless, all you say is so.
But do you vote?
You growl at rotten politics,
But do you vote?
You howl at bosses and their tricks,
But do you vote?
You say, O decent Citizens of (We've heard you, time and time again),
"We want things run by business men."
But do you vote?
Unless you do (I wonder, do you?)
You've got just what is coming to you.

Political Neglect
Sir,—These days of political discussion with a good time to again call the attention of Colonist readers to a specific sample of Liberal Party neglect and mismanagement. We know that the east coast of Vancouver Island, which is nearly all E. & N. Railway land grant, is fairly well populated and produces an income to Federal and Provincial Governments from general taxes, etc., but the West Coast, which is all owned by the Province and can produce an income from both stumpage dues and general taxes, is not populated and produces practically no income neither to the Government nor the individual. Owing to lack of shipping facilities the whole southwest coast (which is far richer in undeveloped natural resources than any portion of the Peace River or P.E.I. country) gets no consideration from the Liberal Party management.

There are about twelve hundred sections in the area and situation million feet would be a fair estimate of the average amount of timber on each section. Each section of it is situated some distance south of the 49th parallel (the international boundary line on the Mainland) in plain sight of every ship that passes daily to or from the ports of the whole world. The Liberal Party has had a splendid opportunity during the last four years to add greatly to the prosperity of this part of our country and the whole of Canada by making Port San Juan (which is near the centre of the timber area) into a good shipping port. It would increase the value of stumpage from one dollar a thousand to five or even ten dollars a thousand. At that price it would pay off the whole Provincial debt and enough millions left over to build a paved highway around the whole of Vancouver Island.

If the Federal and Provincial Governments will concentrate their efforts on making the very best use of the Provincial-owned resources on the West Coast of Vancouver Island it will be quite possible to superannuate all Provincial tax collectors and wipe out all Provincial taxation for twenty-five years. Making the very best possible use of the undeveloped natural resources in our country's greatest need. It is the vital need of every community in Canada, but the great natural resources of the West Coast of Vancouver Island are never mentioned on a political platform; in fact few people in British Columbia or on Vancouver Island know that there is a West Coast. The Liberal party is the most to blame for this shameful state of public af-

Man Suspected In 'Peg Taxi Murder Arrested

Charge of Stealing Coat Made Against Supposed Killer and Articles Found Said to Belong to Victim

Bloodstains on Clothes

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27.—Arrested on the charge of stealing an overcoat, Steve Nazar, aged twenty-one, is today held for investigation in connection with the death of Louis Landy, aged thirty, a local taxi driver, whose body was found in an automobile on a suburban road Monday morning. A watch found in the possession of Nazar, police know, has been identified by Landy's widow as the property of her late husband. Landy was beaten to death with an iron bar. He was found dead, still clutching the steering wheel of his car, which was in a blood-spattered condition.

Bloodstains on Clothes

Nazar's clothing is said to have had many bloodspots on it. Nazar was identified this morning by two taxi drivers who declared him to be the man who was in the car at the Union Station here Sunday evening. One of the drivers had previously given the police a good description of the man, noting particularly a shambling gait he had. The arrest was made at 6 o'clock last evening, but was not announced by the police until this morning. Landy's body was found at 6 a.m. Monday. Robbery is believed to have been the only motive for the killing. The murdered man was known to carry a large sum of money, but only seventy-five cents was found in the "death car." The man had been dead about ten hours when found. Dressed in shabby clothes, Nazar appeared in police court today and was charged with theft of the overcoat and remained. He appeared stupefied, and took no interest in the proceedings.

Auto Club Begins New Auto Patrol

"Emergency Service for Members in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster"

The Automobile Club of British Columbia is introducing an "Emergency Road Service" for the benefit of its members in three cities of the province, namely, Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster. It is the intention of the club to maintain this service throughout the year. Mr. Arthur Veale is the local service manager, and will carry a full emergency kit and when a member is in trouble all he will have to do is telephone 2191 for the emergency man's service, which will be obtainable between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Those hours will hold good except on Sundays and holidays. After 6 p.m. and on Sundays and holidays, members will have to get in touch with the nearest official garage.

The Automobile Club of British Columbia is providing this emergency service for members whose cars are disabled on the road. The local motorcycle man will patrol all the roads on the southern part of the island and at intervals will cover the island as far as Nanaimo and Alberni.

Service will not be rendered to cars in garages or to motors with frozen radiators. No service will be extended to persons unless they have the membership card with them. Any supplies or spare parts brought to the scene by the motorcycle man are to be paid for at current prices. Emergency road service includes such immediate minor repairs or adjustments as can be made on the highway to start a member's car. If the car cannot be started within a reasonable time the mechanic will tow it or have it towed to any place the member wishes to go within a radius of twelve miles.

Boy (who wanted a situation)—I've called in answer to your advertisement for an office boy.

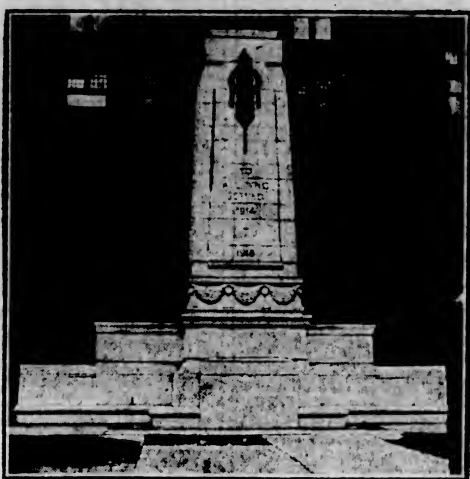

Employer—What is your name?

Boy—Harold Brown.

Employer—Well, you must understand, Harold, that what I really want is a boy to be partly indoors and partly outdoors.

Boy—Er, what happens when the door shuts?

Toronto's Cenotaph Honors Living

THE "cenotaph" in front of the Toronto City Hall—which is now declared to be no cenotaph because it honors the living as well as the dead, who served in the Great War—is ready for its unveiling on Armistice Day. The picture shows the front of the "war pyramid" as the architects term it. The inscription is to "Those who served" in the Great War, rather than merely to those who died in service. There has been considerable protest against the monument on this ground.

Obituary

RISLEY—Funeral service will be held at the Thomson Funeral Home, 625 Quadra Street, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, for the late Mrs. Alice Risley, who passed away at the family residence, 624 Rothwell Street, Tuesday evening. The Rev. F. H. Patt will officiate and the body will be laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

CAMERON—Funeral service for the late Mrs. Mary Ellen Cameron was held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel by the Rev. F. H. Patt. There was a very large attendance of friends and many beautiful floral designs were received. The hymns sung were "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers: Messrs. B. C. Nicholas, E. J. Cameron, G. S. Brown, W. H. Munie, C. E. Brown and W. J. Wilson. Interment was made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

JEWELL—The death took place at an early hour yesterday morning, at the family residence, 604 Cornwall Street, of Duncan Lester Jewell, nine-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Jewell. The funeral will take place Thursday, at 2 o'clock, from the Sands Funeral Chapel. Rev. Frank Hardy will officiate and the remains will be laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

FLETCHER—The funeral of the late Ernest Francis Fletcher, who passed away last Thursday at St. Joseph's Hospital, took place Monday morning, the cortege leaving the Sands Funeral Chapel at 8:50 o'clock. Ten minutes later mass was celebrated at St. Andrew's Cathedral by Mr. J. Leterme. The services at the graveside were conducted by Father J. Silver. Relatives and friends were in attendance, and the pallbearers were Messrs. H. Blakely, O. Stout, George Givney and Cook. The remains were laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

FONG—Many attended the funeral Sunday afternoon of the late Loo Chong Fong, whose death took place on October 15. The cortege left the Sands Funeral Chapel at 1:45 o'clock and ten minutes later the casket was placed on a bier which was built in front of his store, 525 Cormorant Street, where the usual Chinese services were conducted. Interment took place at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Chambers Sitting Will Be Held Here Friday By Mr. Justice Murphy

Mr. Justice Murphy will hold Supreme Court Chambers here, Friday morning, at 10:30 o'clock.

With the judges of the court engaged on circuit there has been no chambers sitting this week.

An adjournment of the sittings at Nanaimo allows Mr. Justice Murphy to return to Victoria for Friday. He will hold chambers that morning but will take up no other court business.

Jury Asks for Safer Corner

Death of Driver Fred Medley Found Accidental, But Street Should Be Improved

Finding that the death of Driver Fred Medley, of the City Fire Department, was purely accidental, the coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday morning, was a rider that the Municipality should take steps to improve the situation at the point where the accident occurred so as to render the place safer for travel. The accident happened Saturday evening by the overturning of the fire department car from No. 5 station, on Gorge Road, just across Harriet Road, in the municipality of Saanich. Mr. Emerson Cody, foreman of the jury, said that he had lived near the place and he had come to call the slope there calamity hill. He mentioned certain improvements that could be carried out to make the place safer for cars. One of these would be the cutting of the grass that grows very high and shut out the view of the car drivers. Another suggestion of his was the removal of a boulder that had been reported to have been struck by the car that night. He said that he had himself rolled this boulder out of the ditch three times.

Car Skewed The evidence of Fireman Frank Stewart, who was on duty on the car, and who jumped clear of it when he saw trouble coming, was that the boulder was not struck by the car. He replied to the foreman as to the cause of the accident, Mr. Stewart said that the car skidded to the right and then to the left, and the front wheels appeared to dig into the ground just off the paved section of the road.

Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, said the boulder was on the side of the road on Monday when he visited the place. The evidence of Mr. Stewart, which was the only testimony of an eyewitness, was that the car that came in led them to believe that the fire was in the city limits. One block before Harriet Road was reached they had slowed down. The road there altered to the Saanich width of paving, being narrower than in the city, with earth and stones on the sides.

Car Travelling Slowly

Just at that point the speed was slow. It would not be more than ten miles an hour, and perhaps less. "The car had a chain on the wheel to prevent skidding. It swerved to the right and then for an instant the driver gained control, when it swerved the other way and ran into the bank. Witness jumped clear of the car, which immediately overturned. The driver had been pinned underneath. He was bleeding from the mouth. Witness telephoned for the ambulance.

Deputy Chief Munroe said he had followed out to the place and arrived shortly after the accident. The car, he said, had made a three-quarter turn. The evidence of Dr. W. Hapty, who had been called to the Jubilee Hospital, was that Mr. Medley was dead when he first saw him. His death was due to the injuries he had received shortly before. There had been a fracture at the base of the skull.

Board Seeks High School Plebiscite

Esquimalt Trustees Will Ask Council to Submit By-Law to People

As soon as the Esquimalt School Board receives from the Provincial Government information as to the amount of the contribution it would be willing to make towards the cost of erecting the proposed new Esquimalt High School, the board will ask the municipal council to place a by-law before the people at the annual election in January on the high school project.

Trustee V. R. Carver reported to the Esquimalt School Board at its regular monthly meeting last night at the Lamson Street School, that he had waited upon the Provincial Government, enlisting its support towards the cost of constructing the suggested new high school in the municipality. The Government appeared very sympathetic toward the board's proposal. Trustee Carver explained, pointing out that the Educational Department wished to have in its possession certain data concerning the proposed high school building.

The board decided to furnish the Government with the desired information. It will await a reply to its request for a grant from the department.

Trustees James Elrick, V. R. Carver and Mrs. Labster, delegates of the board to the recent sessions of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association convention, held at Victoria, gave an account of the proceedings of that conference.

The trustees decided that in view of tomorrow being Federal polling day, the Lamson Street School would be closed tomorrow afternoon.

Jenkins called upon an old friend. He was hard up and hungry, and on his friend's table was a big, fat chicken. "Are you going to eat that chicken alone?" he asked, anxiously regarding the tempting bird. "Oh no," the friend replied, "with asparagus and potatoes, and lots of things."

Suffered for 15 years with constipation—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings relief in 3 weeks

Tried everything. No relief. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN helped him.

Constipation paves the way to many harrowing diseases. But Mr. Williams' letter carries a message of cheer:

"I have been using your ALL-BRAN for the past three weeks and it has done more for me than anything I have tried in the past fifteen years. I was troubled with hemorrhoids for years. About 18 months ago I was operated on with very little relief. I tried everything under the sun. Then my wife suggested Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and I am truly glad that it is the only thing that ever gave me relief."

Yours truly,
L. T. WILLIAMS,
(Address on request).

Cleanse your system of constipation's devastating poisons with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a bulk food that passes through the system, sweeping the intestine clean, stimulating normal, healthy action.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in London, Canada. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

Hon. Mr. Sloan Is Quite Sure of Liberal Win

Predicts That Mr. Booth Will Make a Majority of 1,000 Votes Which He Himself Got Last Election

Premier Oliver's Bars

A majority of one thousand votes for Mr. Thomas Sloan, Liberal standard bearer in the Nanaimo riding, was predicted last night by Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, in an address before forty-eight people at the Rex Theatre, Esquimalt, last night.

"That was the majority I Sloan, and I can see no reason why we can not expect the same result for Mr. Booth. I represent the hard-headed working men of Nanaimo, the miners of Nanaimo, and every time I go back I get a larger vote. As long as that continues I shall find compensation for the abuse to which, like every other public man, I have been subjected."

Turning to the tariff, Mr. Sloan declared that the manufacturers of Canada were the first element in the population to ask for special privileges and to get them. The same thing had happened in the United States, he said.

But the United States did not fix the price of basic commodities. They were fixed in the open markets of the world. Thus the farmers of Canada were suffering under a handicap, inasmuch as they must place on the markets of the world products produced with implements on which there was a tariff.

Making "Em Richer" The policy of continuing that measure of protection was simply the policy of making the rich richer and the poor poorer. Conservatives were behind the manufacturers in the policy of making the rich richer and the poor poorer.

Mr. Sloan attacked Hon. Mr. Meighen's record on the tariff policy, maintaining that he had at first been elected to Parliament to represent Portage la Prairie in the interests of a farming people, opposed to protection, and then had been induced by the manufacturers to espouse the cause of high protection.

"Mr. Meighen says that the tariff must go up, but that prices must not," declared the speaker. "That is an impossibility. Put up the tariff and they'll put up the price and the difference will go into the pockets of the manufacturers. The manufacturers are not in business for nothing."

Mr. Stevens, the ablest man Mr. Meighen had in his party, was really a representative of big interests in the East. He was trying to win over Vancouver to the interests of those Easterners. But the speaker was perfectly sure that Mr. "Jerry" McGee would win the election at Vancouver.

Prosperity From Drink British Columbia was a large country. The things that would build it up into a wealthy and prosperous country were its basic products. These must be sold in the open markets of the world. These products must be made available through the use of machinery. It was unfair of manufacturers to force those exploiting the natural resources of the Province to pay a tax of from 15 to 40 per cent on the implements of production.

Mr. Meighen was pointing to the prosperity of the United States in support of the contention that a high tariff would result in increased prosperity in Canada. But Mr. Meighen failed to say anything about the New England States, where the most highly protected textile industries in the world were located. In these states, in spite of the protective tariffs, the factories were working on only a part time basis.

The Conservatives were going about the country telling people that there were hard times in this Province. But, declared Mr. Sloan, last year the people of this Province had paid over $12,000,000 over Premier John Oliver's back. That meant 12c per head up," said Mr. Sloan.

Mr. Sloan charged that Mr. Dickie, Conservative candidate in the Nanaimo riding, had made in the interests of Japanese immigration. He extolled, incidentally, the steps the Liberal government, both Provincial and Federal, had made in the direction of total Oriental exclusion.

Mr. C. E. Whitney-Griffiths addressed the meeting at some length, and Mrs. Frank Campbell was chairman.

Dinner: Walter. I ordered turtle soup, but I failed to discover any portion of turtle.

Walter: Yes, sir; quite so. Had you ordered cabinet pudding you would not have expected to discover Lloyd George or Mr. Chamberlain therein, sir.

City & District

Rummage Sale—The Women's Patriotic Guild of Christ Church Cathedral will hold a rummage sale on Wednesday, November 4, at 10 o'clock in the old schoolroom, Quadra Street. All who are sending donations are asked to leave them at the hall by Monday afternoon if possible.

I.T.U. Officials Coming—Prominent officials of the International Typographical Union who will visit Victoria on November 18 are Mr. James M. Lynch, president; Mr. Seth Brown, the vice-president, and Mr. J. W. Hays, secretary, all of Indianapolis, Ind. They will proceed to Vancouver the following day.

Mayor to Speak—Mayor Pendray will outline the city's advertising campaign on the Prairies at today's luncheon of the Real Estate Board at 12:30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce. Police protection for vacant dwellings, community advertising plan and amendment to the scale of charges will be other business matters that local realtors will discuss today.

Post Office on Polling Day—Thursday having been declared a half-holiday, on account of the General Elections poll, the Post Office will be closed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. that day, while the afternoon letter carrying deliveries will not be made. All mails due to be despatched will be made up as usual. Street letter-boxes will be used as usual, excepting that between the hours of 1 p.m. and 5 p.m., the downtown collections will not be made.

Accident Victims—Messrs. George Rasmussen, mechanic for the Hegg Motor Company, and Will Marshall, traveler for Wilson Bros., who were injured in the auto-street car crash on Fort Street on Monday afternoon, were last night reported at St. Joseph's Hospital, as resting comfortably, and getting along as well as could be expected. Lieutenant McQueen, who was hurt on Saturday night in the fire engine mishap on the Gorge Road, is making satisfactory progress towards recovery at his home.

Charge Withdrawn—Lee Wing Chung, whose case has repeatedly been adjourned in the police court, was yesterday relieved from the charge of assault laid against him by a fellow-countryman, Mr. R. C. Lowe, who appeared for the informant in the case, said that the Chinese merchants had desired the settlement of the matter, and the client was ready to drop the charges. Mr. C. L. Harrison, while disliking the practice of withdrawing such cases, felt that it would be the proper course. Mr. Stuart Henderson, who appeared for accused, said he had heard nothing about the settlement, but he was ready, of course, to have the charge withdrawn.

"I'm looking for my ideal dog," said the lady in the canine-fancier's shop. "I'd like one with a head rather like a colts and a body after the style of an Irish terrier, only with longer hair and nice, distinct markings. Do you keep dogs like that?" The dog fancier shook his head sadly. "No, ma'am," he said, "I drowse 'em."

New Industry Begins Building At Sproat Lake

Lumber Plant to Be Inaugurated at Convenient Point on Great Central Lake Branch

Also Fish Reduction Plant

A new sawmill in the neighborhood of Alberni is to be constructed by a syndicate of Old Country and New Westminster capitalists. The company has a stand of timber at Sproat Lake, and it is understood the intention is to build on the limits convenient to the Great Central Lake branch of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway. Preliminary bunkhouse buildings have been commenced, and it is understood a mill will follow. Rail communication is contemplated to the property.

This industry, in a sequel to the development rendered possible by the construction of the branch line, the largest immediate feature of which is the building of the Great Central Lake sawmill, now under construction.

Recently The Colonist announced the leasing of a fish-reduction plant at Port Alberni, formerly occupied by Watson Brothers, to the Somerville Packing Company, of Vancouver. This company is now salting salmon, and it is expected a profitable connection will be built up.

Mr. Dickie Speaks In St. Mark's Hall

Conservative Candidate in Nanaimo Outlines Policy of Conservative Party

Mr. C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate for Nanaimo riding, addressed a fair sized audience last night in St. Mark's Hall, Saanich, who he made his first appearance in that part of the constituency before the general election on Thursday. He was supported on the platform by Mr. J. Hinchcliffe, second Conservative member in the Provincial Legislature for the city of Victoria, and Captain R. F. Matheson, Reeve of Esquimalt, and Hon. T. G. Conroy, M.P.P. for Saanich, who acted as chairman.

Mr. Dickie dealt with many of the leading issues of the election and touched particularly on the policy of the Conservative Party. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and the Conservatives are for protection, he said, because they were convinced that by that means only could Canada be returned to the condition of prosperity which was the rightful due of her people.

Ex-Premiers Found Health Association

Would Bring About New Kind of Golden Age in Britain—Ambitious Move

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Daily Express says today that three former premiers of Great Britain, the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, Earl Balfour and Ramsay MacDonald, with a number of prominent physicians and hygienists, have formed a remarkable society aiming to bring about a "golden age of health" in England. This organization, which is to be formally organized early in December, will be called "The New Health Society."

Its primary object will be, The Daily Express believes, that a "new man" be created by a new way of life. A nation-wide propaganda campaign is to be launched when the society is inaugurated.

A woman teacher, in trying to explain the meaning of the word "slowly," illustrated it by walking across the floor.

When she asked the class to tell her how she walked, she nearly fainted when a boy at the foot of the class shouted, "How-legged, ma'am!"

France Believed by Tribesmen's Chief to Have Exercised Pressure on Madrid to Renew War

Spaniards Dubbed Invincible Idiots

N. A. N. A. Correspondent Completes Inspection of Ajdir Front and Goes to French Lines in South

By VINCENT SHERMAN
Special Correspondent of The Colonist and North American Newspaper Alliance with the Riff Armies.
(Copyright, 1925, in United States Great Britain and all other countries by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

AJDIR, Sept. 24, by courier to Tangier, Oct. 27.—With the completion of my survey of the Franco-Spanish attacking forces around Ajdir, I am now ready to plunge southward, straight across the Riff country, for a study of the French military activities along the southern front. My next series of dispatches, which I shall send out at the earliest opportunity, will deal with the French effort to gain a tenable position for the long winter of watchful waiting.

Abd-el-Krim, in his final talks with me, discussed the present Spanish attitude toward the Riff questions. His opinion of the Spanish seems to have gone down greatly since their prolonged effort to capture the empty city of Ajdir. He believes that Spain has been pushed by France into an utterly false position.

From the Riffan viewpoint, the Franco-Spanish attack on Ajdir is not very important. It merely adds one more front to the five fronts which they are already holding without much difficulty.

Abd-el-Krim, brother of Abd-el-Krim and commander-in-chief of the Riff armies, is expected to arrive here within a few days for a study of the military position. Some reinforcements have been ordered into this sector, although no particularly violent fighting is expected. At the present time, the total Riffan force on this front does not exceed 600 men—who are faced by 5,000 Spanish infantrymen and the combined artillery of the French and Spanish fleets, to say nothing of the aviators of both nations.

This morning's news at Riff headquarters included announcement of the capture of two French posts near Illbane, while another in the Beni Zeroual country is completely surrounded. A French airplane fell at Shehuan yesterday and was destroyed.

Quiet Day in the Trenches
This morning the campaign around Ajdir seemed to have lulled. There was a notable calm after the terrific fighting of yesterday. The French fleet withdrew during the night, and a large part of the Spanish naval force had also disappeared. We awoke to find only two Spanish ships in the Bay of Alhucemas, one cruiser and one destroyer.

Abd-el-Krim took me on a complete tour of the trench area around Cape Moro Nuevo, from the western shore of the peninsula to the last Riffan battery, directly facing the Spanish flotilla. With field glasses we were able to see the decks of the ships around the peninsula.

The Riffan front here is about two miles long, running along the sides of three mountains. The Riffans control the summits of all three mountains, and their artillery is posted near the tops, able to take the entire slope of the rocky peninsula.

The huge rock occupied by the Spanish soldiers is a huge brown stone, absolutely bare, lacking even a blade of grass. It has no water, and the soldiers there must be supplied with food and drink from the fleet. The same situation prevails on the island of Alhucemas, where the Spanish garrison is dependent on its boats for everything.

"What Idiots!" Says Abd-el-Krim
The flotilla surrounding Cape Moro Nuevo today consisted of one cruiser, one destroyer, three gunboats, one commercial vessel of some sort, and one submarine. What purpose the little submarine served I was unable to imagine, but it was there.

"See what invincible idiots the Spanish are!" said Abd-el-Krim, waving his glasses toward the bare rock of Moro Nuevo. "They have abandoned some of the most fertile parts of Morocco at a great cost in money and men, leaving behind in our hands an enormous wealth in war material. Then a year later, at the demand of the French, they return here to occupy the most barren rock on the whole continent of Africa!"

"I believe France must have exercised enormous pressure on Spain to induce her to commit such a ridiculous action. The French probably threatened to withdraw all of Spain's so-called 'rights' over Morocco. But what rights are those? The only rights that France and Spain have derive from this country's weakness. That weakness will not last forever."

British to Wipe Away Last Human Slavery
GENEVA, Oct. 26.—The last spot on the British Empire's map where human slavery still exists is the Hutu Valley in the upper portion of the Indian province of Burma. By next May the Empire hopes to have removed this last vestige from the dominions and colonies directly under its control, and from those bordering it as well.

The local potentates have agreed that a fixed price shall be set for each class of slave in the Hutu Valley, and once it is fixed the bondsmen in question shall immediately become free and enjoy all the rights and privileges of free men. The slave is then to work out the purchase of his freedom by paying easy annual installments.

Macoy's prices and selection in Christmas cards printed to order in Victoria, cannot be beaten. They employ no canvassers and the purchaser pays nothing in commissions. Call and be convinced.

Genius and Character

What is genius? It has been defined by some authorities as patience. If that be so, then an unflinching routine of labor from childhood to the grave may be genius. Certainly it would be as near the mark to affirm that genius is impatience. Another time-honored formula is concentration. Here, as in the preceding definition, we have but a small element or glimpse of the truth. Were genius concentration, every plodding barrister, every successful in business, would all be men of genius.

Dr. Johnson's view was that genius was universal capacity accidentally taking a particular channel. Again, it has been averred that genius is, after all, only common sense working at a very high level. These more or less accepted hazards assist in the investigation, if only in illustration of what genius is not. And talent is not genius. Talent is in man's power; genius is that in whose power a man is.

Good or Bad Spirit
Admittedly, genius is an extraordinary gift, or combination of great powers: a phenomenal faculty, or very remarkable endowment for some special pursuit. But genius may be a beneficent spirit or an evil spirit, precluding over the destiny of a person. Given that it is one of the first-named characters, and accompanied by unceasing industry, I venture to proclaim that genius is an ineradicable, individual bent in some direction or other. The bent may be destroyed or ignored, but it will never be rooted out. For it is the essence, the mind, the soul of the individual in whom it dwells. In a word it is the bent, the first nature, an inner call, that no habit can completely suppress; and it is this bent which inclines the man for the rest of his life.

And you can have the bent without any special aptitude. Shakespeare was an eminent playwright but he was not an actor. Guidenitz was, like an angel, yet was an indifferent talker. Many people confound deep character with genius. The world abounds in good characters that have no genius, and a person of brilliant genius may, alas, have a most feeble character. Were it otherwise, the definition which makes genius patience, and that which makes it concentration, might both be true.

The world is a very ordinary sort of world, not concerning itself much about things above the commonplace. It cares far more about the price of potatoes than it does about genius. May this vulgarism of a world will not pay for a divine poem; then grow it potatoes, since it will pay for them, and grow your poems for yourself and endow ages to come. A genius, more than all others, requires to possess strong, resolute character. The gods have dealt unkindly who have given to genius the gift of unlimited canvas and no ballast to speak of. If you be a genius, possess your soul in impregnable patience, full of faith and fight; but despondent—never!

If it needs a breast of granite to withstand the world's neglect, injustice, contumely, favoritism or amazement, and if nature did not make you granite, then supply the omission out of your own soft heart by the exercise of your severe will. Asphalt is made of the softest materials. It is his character and not his genius which decides the happiness or misery of a man of genius.

It's Dogged That Does It
The popular notion that great works are wholly the result of "inspiration" is foolish. You may whistle off a lyric before you know where you are, and even a couple of stanzas may come to you from the Lord knows where; but no epic poem was composed in such easy fashion, nor one-fourth of a canto. The doing of it in its entirety will be downright hard work, and will depend on character. It will be no more "inspiration" than the making of a cart wheel, or the digging of a grave.

But what, then, is genius? Absolutely rigid definitions are impossible, even in abstract science. May we not now regard genius as an ineradicable, native bent for everlasting in one of certain exalted and well recognized spheres of thought or action? The substance of the matter: the other words being necessary only by way of cautious qualification. The ultimate achievement of genius will depend, in great measure, upon the force of character with which it is allied.

Does the bent without the aptitude make a man of genius? The absence of aptitude may go to prove that the bent was merely a twist, which he gave to himself early in life. The boy as a sentimental scribbler is revealed by the great touchstone—time—probably as a highly successful tea merchant. If the ingenious youth has a real bent, and does not overrate his position in the universe, he may have to wait many long years before his genius and knowledge are recognized by others. Here again, character comes to the rescue; character, force of will, whatever we may call it: that true and abiding thing which connotes a man under the word of all things else; and which will be his dearest guardian when the fickle throng about forth the praises of his fame who once shook their heads over his fatuity.

Hallowe'en Masquerade

Many beautiful costumes were in evidence at the Hallowe'en masquerade dance in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium Monday night. The judges, Mrs. Crocker, Mrs. House and Mr. Hunter, had great difficulty in choosing the best costumes, finally deciding on the following: Best costume, Mrs. Yates as "Canada"; best costume, gentleman, Mr. Robinson; Zulu, best dressed lady, Mrs. Hooper; Tudor lady, best dressed gentleman, Mr. Crothall, as an Arab; first Hallowe'en costume, Mrs. Hugh Black; second, Mrs. Adams; third, Mrs. Malcolm; special, Mrs. Luff, harem lady; comic lady, Mrs. Johnson as "Bally"; comic gentleman, Mr. A. Hunt as Charlie Chaplin. The winner of the tombola was Mrs. May, and the winner of the balloon dance, Mrs. Meele and Mrs. Adams. Members of Queen Alexandra Review, No. 11, W.B.A., especially the committee Messrs. Schmelz, Riephof, Maxwell and Miss Leitch, to thank all those who donated prizes and helped in other ways to make this the success it undoubtedly was. The balloon dance, Mrs. Meele and Mrs. Adams were especially enjoyed, and Charlie Hunt's orchestra played the music.

W.B.A. Juniors' Concert

The Rose Court Juniors of the W. B. A. Macabees held a most enjoyable concert on Saturday afternoon, "Cinderella," was presented in short form by eight Juniors in George Washington period costumes. Those taking part were: Martha Harrison, Florence and Ethelwynne Malcolm, Christine Schmetz, Beatrice and Agnes Bryson, Amy Heath and Hazel De Witt. Martha Harrison deserves great credit for the manner in which she arranged the parts and acts, and was the recipient of an appropriate gift as a token of love and esteem from the Juniors. Others taking part in the programme were: Marjorie Thompson, Barrie Taylor, Irene Davis, Opal Day, Gertrude Hunt, Gladys Moraes, June McAllister, Thyrta, Helen Foster, Pearl Hill, Edna Davis and Evelyn

Saanich Police to Hold Their Annual Ball This Evening

THE Saanich Police will hold their annual ball tonight at the Agricultural Hall at Saanichton, from 9 to 2 a.m. Prof. George Oard's orchestra will render a fine programme of the latest popular dancing numbers, and supper will be served during the evening. The proceeds of the function will, in the past, be devoted to providing relief for the needy in the municipality. For the convenience of Victorians, the Flying Line will leave its depot, opposite the Dominion Hotel, at 8:30 o'clock tonight, and will leave Saanichton at 2 a.m. to return to the city.

England. All performed in excellent form and the Junior and Junior brides, Stephen and queen's adviser, Mrs. Schmelz, feel very proud of their Juniors. The meetings will be held on the second and fourth Saturdays at 2:30 o'clock in the K. of C. Hall, Government Street.

Kitchen Shower

Miss Margaret Anderson, Lee Avenue, was hostess Monday evening at a kitchen shower in honor of Miss Margaret Cave, the popular bride-elect. The many useful gifts were presented to the guest of honor in a large flower basket, decorated in gold and blue. During the evening, which was spent in games and dancing, Miss Edna Lunney and Mr. W. H. Hadley rendered vocal solos, and Mrs. J. Anderson and Miss Marjorie Hadley played a number of musical selections. Those present were: Mrs. A. M. Anderson, Mrs. W. H. Hadley, Dr. Irene Adams, Mrs. Alfred Jacklin, Mrs. J. Anderson, Miss Margaret Cave, Miss Tommy Grant, Miss Margaret Anderson, Miss Florence Symes, Miss Dorothy Symes, Miss Winifred Ellis, Miss Edna Lunney, Miss Eleanor Lunney, Miss Lily Wilson, Miss Nona Rich, Miss Marion Hadley and Miss Evelyn Anderson.

Missionary Tells Why China Rebels Against Present Lot

Rev. A. J. Brace, F.R.G.S., in Lecture Before Metropolitan Church Audience, Explains Methods of Exploiting Oriental Labor and Its Recent Reactions

The scandalous methods employed by Occidental capital to exploit Chinese labor in the cotton mills of China were explained by Rev. A. J. Brace, F.R.G.S., in the course of the strikingly interesting address which he gave on Monday evening before a big audience at the Metropolitan Church. The recital, although devoid of any rhetorical flourishes, so appealed to the sympathies of the audience that the speaker was interrupted two or three times by cries of "Shame."

Mr. Brace questioned the facts in response to a question from Rev. Dr. Sipprell. He stated that there were now something like 1,400 cotton factories in the neighborhood of Tientsin and Shanghai. One of the best cotton mills, operated by Occidental money, began in 1904 with a capital of $600,000. For two years $600,000 was added, and in the three years succeeding a profit of $1,000,000 was made. This tremendous turnover was made possible through the low wages paid. Men received thirty cents a day; women twenty cents. Boys of fifteen and under received twenty cents; girls of fifteen and under, ten cents. Little boys of ten years and under received seven cents. The employees, numbering 2,500, were worked in two shifts, twelve hours to the shift. No food was supplied in the factory. The children slept on mats in the factory, and when a child worked up another, coming off shift, took its place without time being given for the mats to be shaken or aired. The chief food was rice.

Exploited Labor
"With that kind of cheap labor, do you wonder that it is possible to make a million profit?" asked the speaker. He proceeded to make a picture, by contrast with this Western exploitation of the Oriental, the attitude of certain Chinese. The instance applied was a printing establishment started by Christian natives. In the nine or ten years this concern has been in business, great pressure had been put on them to improve their lot, but they had refused, and had never been known to print a page of questionable matter. Yet this concern paid high wages, gave bonuses, worked on the profit-sharing plan and pension system, and provided evening school and Y.M.C.A. advantages for their employees, as well as dispensary and hospital privileges.

"Yet we call the Chinese a heathen nation," commented Mr. Brace, who noted that the capitalistic press expressed the evils of the first incident, on the one hand, and the merits of the second.

Lantern Slides
The lecture was generously illustrated with lantern slides, which gave a wonderful picture of the people of the interior of China and Tibet, whom Mr. Brace had seen in the course of a long trip which he had made in connection with his Y.M.C.A. work. Many modern inventions had been brought into service in the more traveled routes during recent years. For instance, a voyage on the Yangtze, which fifteen years ago took a month, was now reduced to a few hours by steamship.

China is still able to show the world how to grow chrysanthemums. In a single garden 2,000 miles west of Shanghai, he had seen more than 300 varieties of this flower in bloom at the same time. Mr. Brace's picture of the Chinese represented them as a kindly, courteous, patient people, with a wonderful sense of hospitality in their homes and a love of beautiful things. The lovely imagery which entered into their literature and traditions, helped to a ready comprehension of the Bible stories. They, too, have the story of the flood, of Adam and Eve, of evolution, and even a Jonah story. Belief in little devils affects even their architecture, being responsible for the curved roof, which is characteristic in Chinese buildings. Tibetan customs were shown to vary greatly from the Chinese. Whereas in China the men could have several wives, in Tibet the women only practiced polygamy, although, curiously the priesthood were men in count, but women were not supposed to be able to go to heaven until they went through a process of reincarnation as men.

Calendars Shown In Arts Exhibit

Several Artists Displaying in This Section at Crystal Garden—Ancient Art Reviewed

The season at which the annual exhibition of the Ind Arts and Crafts Society is held always provides an opportunity to the artist who can adapt his work to the making of calendars. The exhibition of the society, which is to continue until 10 o'clock Saturday evening, has assembled quite the best calendar display in the history of these events.

Among those who are showing calendars are Mrs. L. B. Kent, whose charming little water color sketches of bits of the golf links at Oak Bay furnish a solution of the annually recurring problem of what to give a golfing friend as a Christmas gift. The same artist has several other delightfully-pictured subjects, any one of which, separated from its use as a calendar, will still be retained as a picture.

Some of the most beautiful and most familiar of the wild blossoms of the district form the subjects of attractive flower calendars by Miss R. H. Davey. Miss Peggy Hodins has a series of graceful silhouettes applied to a printing establishment. Mrs. Darnell employs shadowgraphs for the same purpose, and M. E. Ellison sketches of sailing ships.

Wonderful Color Shown

One would have to be absolutely insensitive to color to miss the wonderful collection of fringed scarves, georgette and chiffon handkerchiefs, and whole robes of georgette which Mrs. Justin Gilbert is showing. The colors range from flaming oranges and crimsons and fuchsia reds, peacock and green and indigo, to the most delicate pastel tints, the combinations being always exquisite in artistry. The wisps of georgette which are handkerchiefs are as insubstantial and gorgeous as rainbow sunbeams. A long-fringed scarf which shades from deep peltunia at the ends to a delicate old rose in the centre. An evening dress consists of a length of georgette tinted in hues which range from gold, through orange, to golden brown, with sets of gadgets or frills combining the same colorings.

Lady Byng accepted two of Mrs. Justin Gilbert's scarves, subsequently giving orders for more, and afterwards she very kindly extended her patronage. Mrs. W. C. Nichol has also generously given her patronage. Still more rare than her art dyes are Mrs. Gilbert's paintings on ivory, under crystal. It is a revival of a type of jewelry which was much affected in the sixteenth century by ladies of fashion, and the two examples which are shown here are very fascinating. To be in keeping with the delicately gleaming flowers which they enclose, the frames are always of handwrought metal. One frame, surrounding a moon rose, has a combination of green and yellow gold. Pendants, brooches, earrings and plaque designs are made to order in this charming medium.

Boudoir Boxes Displayed

The opulent ornaments of the Empire period was responsible for many of the gaily decorated boudoir accessories of the time. In recent years there has been a revival of this form of art, and Mrs. L. A. Genge has two attractive examples in the glove and handkerchief boxes which she has on display in one of the cases.

Three Meetings Are Booked for Eve of Election

Conservatives Will Make Last Review of Election Issues at Chamber of Commerce and in Esquimalt

Sometime around 11 o'clock tonight, the eve of the general election day, when the last strains of the National Anthem have been brought to a thundering finish at the last political meeting of the campaign, the people of Canada must take into their own hands the destiny of their country. For at 11 o'clock tonight the time for their leaders to detail to them the issues of the day will have passed, and theirs must be the responsibility.

Tonight three meetings will be held within the boundaries of Greater Victoria. Two, one Conservative and one Liberal, will be held in Victoria proper, the riding being contested by Hon. Dr. S. P. Tormie, Conservative, and Mr. William McK. Ivel, Liberal; and a third will be held in Esquimalt, part of the riding of Nanaimo, in the interests of Mr. C. H. Dickie, the Conservative candidate.

The Victoria Conservative meeting will start at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce. Government Street. Speakers will be Major Gus Lyons, M.P.P., campaign manager for Hon. Dr. Tormie; Mr. Reginald Hayward, first member in the Provincial Legislature for Victoria, and Mr. Lindley Crease.

The Victoria Liberal meeting will be held in the Royal Victoria Theatre. Speakers will be Mr. J. W. deB. Farria, of Vancouver, and Hon. Dr. MacLean, Provincial Minister of Finance. At the Conservative meeting in the Sailors' Club, Esquimalt, speakers will be Mr. R. H. Pooley, Conservative leader in British Columbia, and Mr. H. Despard Twigg, third Conservative member in the Provincial Legislature. A good musical programme has been arranged.

Gone Are The Days

Not long ago the work of washing was a household duty performed by the housewife or by the hired girl. Then followed the plan of having the wash done by a laundress in your home or in her home.

All of these have served their purpose, and the wise woman of today will not tolerate such uncertain and unsatisfactory methods. Linens for table and bed, her own garments and her family's wearables are now sent to the laundry because she has learned that rubbing wears out more linen and other fabrics than the actual use of them—and there is no rubbing in this laundry.

Five Ottawa Families Have Narrow Escape

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—Five families were almost overcome by dense smoke which filled the Dalhousie Apartments early this morning when fire breaking out in a rubbish heap at the rear of the building burned through the ground floor door and quickly filled the entire building with the fumes. Many of the occupants were rescued by firemen, several women carrying small children, clad only in their night attire, escaping with the assistance of the firemen.

CHAPTER LXXII

Briscoe's Fate

"Why! I didn't even tell him definitely I was coming here at all. He told me it would 'clear the cobwebs' from my brain, and he sort of urged me into coming back to my old home for a little while. But I never said I was coming, and never in the world did I dream that he—she broke off, her face flushing hotly under the sudden realization of Briscoe's treachery and wickedness. 'Landis, you don't think—you wouldn't believe—'

Her husband touched her shoulder with a caressing gesture. 'Of course not, Rosilyn! I know you—and I know Briscoe. I never ought to have let the fellow near you. I believe everything you say. The bewildered look was still in her pretty eyes.

"If he came here, how did he get in? And how did you find him? And where is he now?"

"He said," announced Landis slowly, "that you sent him the key of the inn."

Rosilyn was amazed again.

"I only had one key, and I kept it in my own purse. He must have found the other in its hiding-hole near the back door, in the yard. Now I remember, I once told him—years ago—about the hiding-hole. It was when he was locked out and I had to get up and let him in. I told him there was always a key under that stone."

"It was about three years ago, when I was seventeen. . . . I was so tired out, working all day, and I was awfully to be roused at night by any of the guests coming back late—though father told me I oughtn't to have let Mr. Briscoe know where the key was kept."

Landis nodded.

Rosilyn went on, eagerly:

"You found him inside the house, did you? What did he tell you? How did he explain?"

Her husband looked rather grim as he replied:

"Not very much was said, but I'm afraid I married his beauty, rather. You see, he lied about someone who was very dear to me. . . .

"Wasn't it?" asked Rosilyn.

"Yes. You are dear to me, Rosilyn. Do you know that?"

Below her breath, she whispered:

"Lydia Harbrook. I told him there was always a key under that stone."

"That's over and done with, Rosilyn, if you'll only forgive me. The boating incident, too. I—I hated her—that night—because I knew the talk that would take place—and how you'd feel—and—and—I love you, Rosilyn! I know now that I love you heart and soul, and always."

"Oh, Landis!" she nestled in his arms, like a lonely little bird who had found sanctuary. "Oh, Landis! It's unbelievably wonderful! I—you see—I've loved you ever since I was a baby."

"Sweetheart! Mine!" He caught her in his arms and kissed her.

Six months later, Mrs. Ridgeway, Senior, was taking tea in the Klits Hotel with some of her special cronies, and among them was the one who had croaked so at Landis' wedding.

"How is the Gilded Rose?" the gossip queried.

Mrs. Ridgeway frowned, then her patrician features relaxed into a smile.

"She makes a wonderful wife for Landis, and he dotes her."

"Really?" The word was drawn out half incredulously. "Has he quite got over his infatuation for the Harbrook woman, then?"

"Oh, that!" Landis' mother dismissed the subject with a shrug of the shoulders, as though it were not worth discussing. "He was only flirting with poor Lydia. She's not the sort men want to marry, and Rosilyn is a thousand times more attractive. Landis soon found that out. As a matter of fact, the money question doesn't enter into it at all these days, because my boy came into quite a bit of money shortly after the wedding, and he's more or less independent of any money Rosilyn has."

That was a fact for the gossip.

Someone said:

"I heard in Paris a few weeks back that Lydia Harbrook has really married Steven Van Voorst. There's a money-bag girl, if you like! And I also heard that she'd 'gone off' shockingly in looks, and was quite scrawny! Landis was well rid of her!"

Mrs. Ridgeway, Senior, slipped her tea, secure in the delightful knowledge that her son was happily married, and not in the least caring what these gossip old women said.

"By the way, rather dreadful about Rupert Briscoe, wasn't it?" one of the nicer of the group remarked. "He got a two years' sentence in the courts for his run-running business on the coast—getting wines and whiskey and all sorts of liquors into the country—I hear he had a regular smuggler's den."

Mrs. Ridgeway, Senior, could have given an enlightening story of a one-time accident to her daughter-in-law, when Rosilyn had very nearly been caught in that cave herself. Indeed, she had slipped into the entrance, and Briscoe, who was there at the time on his own nefarious business, had brought her home.

But Landis' mother had no wish to give the gossip an spicy morsel of this.

"I must be going now. I'm dining tonight with my men and his wife. They're too absurdly happy. Quite like a pair of love-birds! And she gave a laugh that had grown mellow with age.

The dinner was delightful. Rosilyn had learnt the art of entertaining, and her husband's eyes were fond and proud as they rested on his young wife. She had developed an elusive beauty and charm that held him.

"Love me, Rosilyn!" He tilted up her face when all the guests had gone, and they were alone together in the charming drawing-room on East Eighty-fifth street.

"Beyond everything!" Her lovely eyes were pools of truth and light. "Do you love me?"

"Oh, Rose of all the World, I love you best!" he whispered, holding her close.

The End.

Interesting Lecture Given by Dr. Moore

St. Joseph's Alumnae Hold Meeting—Diabetes and Care of Body Theme of Talk

A meeting of the Alumnae of St. Joseph's Hospital was held at the hospital Wednesday evening, many members being present. Among the business matters attended to was the arrangement of the date for the annual bazaar, which is to be held Saturday, November 21.

Adjourning to the lecture-room, an interesting address was given by Dr. J. H. Moore on "Some Routine Laboratory Tests." The first of these to be demonstrated was the basal metabolic rate machine, used in connection with the diagnosis of certain diseases, such as goitre, etc. This machine indicates the exact rate at which metabolism is going on in the body by measuring the amount of oxygen used.

Other tests were then made and their uses explained. Dr. Moore also spoke of the cancer problem and explained many facts about the disease. The latter part of the lecture was devoted to the subject of diabetes, this being one of the diseases in the cure of which laboratory work plays an important part. The lecturer concluded by saying that people must be taught to know more about their physical bodies that they might better care for them and the national health would increase. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Dr. Moore by the president on behalf of the members, and the meeting adjourned.

There is to be a series of lectures by various medical men at the meetings of the society throughout the winter months.

Sick Crews Are Treated by Radio

All Over Pacific

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 27.—The chart for radio-treated patients in the receiving hospital here is mostly blank. The physician who receives ships with ill crews in all parts of the Pacific frequently does not know whether he or Davy Jones won.

Ships that do not carry doctors are making increased use of the radio when sickness visits their cabins. San Pedro picks up these calls for medical assistance and relays them to the hospital here.

A physician digests the symptoms and prescribes a remedy. In a few minutes the answer to the distressed query is flashed back to the ship. If the case is serious, a continuous flow of messages between the hospital and vessel is maintained. But in the majority of cases, the results are never known.

Treatment can be given by the local hospital to positions as distant as Singapore.

Efforts are being made to have all ship lines operating tankers and freighters adopt a standard medicine chest. By this means the police physicians at the hospital will know what medicinal supplies are available for their prescription.

Better Alabaster Lamps

Made in King Tut's Day

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Whereas the world is just beginning to use alabaster for electric lighting, the Egyptians 3,375 years ago made even finer alabaster lamps than are produced today. Mr. Howard Carter, co-discoverer of Tutankhamen's tomb, said in an address here.

Mr. Carter made known that in finding many of these lamps in the tomb the secret of how the Egyptians illuminated their homes was revealed.

The lamps were executed in beautiful designs in translucent alabaster, and one of them stood about 3 feet in height, with a large central cup. There was no decoration on the exterior or the interior, but immediately a light was placed in the vessel there could be seen a picture of the young king and queen in colors. This effect was produced by another vessel, with the decoration on its exterior, being fitted inside the lamp so cleverly that the joints between the two vessels could not be seen.

Agriculture Makes Big Progress Here

Hon. E. D. Barrow Tells Kiwanians About Farming and Dairying in B.C.

Agriculture in British Columbia has progressed in a satisfactory manner and farm production has steadily increased in value. Less than several millions of dollars in 1912, it was last year about $40,000,000, with rapid growth shown in the last ten years.

Hon. E. D. Barrow, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, told members of the Victoria Kiwanian Club at their luncheon yesterday at noon in the Chamber of Commerce. The fine programme for the occasion was arranged by the committee under the chairmanship of Kiwanian George Tallant.

Hon. Mr. Barrow pointed out that in developing agriculture in a new country too much stress was often placed on production, which resulted in the overlooking of available markets. This was shown, he said, in the fruit industry fifteen years ago, and in spite of conditions being improved in recent years things were not today what they should be.

The speaker declared that while British Columbia had an importation of 6,000,000 pounds of butter, this was offset by export of condensed milk and diversion of butterfat to the more profitable ice cream market, the output of butterfat being sufficient otherwise to supply the needs of this province.

"The increase in the value of dairying in British Columbia from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000 has followed land clearing and draining operations, whereas the great prairie expansion found the farms already equipped with buildings and other capital expenses had not to be met," said Mr. Barrow.

Enjoyable vocal solos were rendered during the gathering by Miss Beth Simpson, whose vocal renditions were greatly appreciated. She was presented with a lovely floral bouquet. A novelty number was conducted by Kiwanian Vic King, creating considerable merriment.

The Erring Wife and Mother is the woman who sacrifices her health and consequent happiness to her ambition. We all know such women—women anxious that their homes shall be kept immaculately neat and attractive and their children well dressed. They overdo and soon bring on some feminine ailment which is evidenced by nervousness, irritability, headache, backache and other aches and pains attending such ills. Every woman should remember that the most successful remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for fifty years has been restoring women to health, strength and happiness.

NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

Harry Meeking Is Ninth Man to Sign Up for Coming Pond Season

Energetic Victoria Forward Starts His Sixth Year With Lester's Crew—Takes Nothing From Rivals, But Advances Cougars' Interests at All Times

Harry Meeking is the latest to answer the call of the pond. Harry, who was a member of last year's Victoria Cougars, world's hockey champions, yesterday signed up with Lester Patrick for another season and is yearning for the date a few days distant when he will don the steel blades, take his stick in hand and go out after the rival outfit that will clash against the Stanley Cup holders.

Harry stands in well with local fans, and there's a reason. He is a hard worker, full of energy, ambitious and at all times anxious to promote the welfare of the team of which he is a member. He takes nothing from any of his opponents, but is right there to let the rival puckchasers know that they needn't try and pull anything over his eyes. They know, in any case, that they wouldn't have a ghost of a chance, even if they were plucky enough to make any such attempt.

Getting his early hockey training in the East, Meeking performed with his Toronto sextette before leaving that portion of the country, and came West in 1920 with Jack Adams and Alfred Skinner, the latter two men joining the Vancouver club and Harry coming over to Victoria. And Harry has been here ever since.

Starting Sixth Season Here
Meeking will this year be spending his sixth season under the wing of Lester Patrick. He was a valuable acquisition to the Cougars and each year he has been an important factor in enabling the Victoria crew to breeze through with victory at the expense of the invaders. Harry puts forth his best efforts throughout and the rivalry fully recognizes this. They give him generous hands when he makes his face appear foolish by outwitting them by his skill and heady playing.

Purloining goals come natural, in a sense, to Meeking. It is a fact that he hasn't led the league in goal scoring, but many of the scores he has registered have been the outcome of some wonderful work on his part. He has plenty of initiative, plans his every move before performing, persistently takes advantage of every opportunity, and success crowns his playing.

Figures in Pretty Score
Harry figured in one of the prettiest

est goals, if not the most spectacular, scored in any game of the world's series here last Spring between Victoria and Montreal Canadiens. The incident occurred in the second period of the fourth and final Stanley Cup contest. Meeking secured the puck and started down the pond in the direction of the Montreal citadel. He outwitted single-handed several of the visiting puckchasers; then Frank Foyatton rapidly skated from a wing over towards the goal mouth, picked up the clay pass which Meeking gave him and banged the rubber into the Canadian net. Harry and Frank were cheered vociferously for this excellent work.

With Harry's signature affixed to a Cougars contract, Lester now has all of his 1924 team, with two exceptions, back on his roster again, and has added one recruit, Russell Oatman, well-known Victoria lad and star amateur puckchaser. It is expected that Frank Fredrickson and Frank Foyatton will be heard from soon.

Victoria's hockey mogul will be leaving shortly for Winnipeg, where his boys will train for a brief period in preparation for the big Eastern tour which the world champions will make next month. He hopes that his protégés will have a successful expedition in Eastern Canada and will be in fine fettle for their opening games on the Pacific Coast early in December.

Jock Finishes Race Riding Wrong Horse

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Pilotting the favorite when the barrier was sprung, but astride an out-older near the finish, was the hitherto unheard-of, extricated himself on the Enghien track today. Fourteen horses bunched at a jump in the October steeple chase, the feat of the card, when Meisner, the 4 to 1 choice, and three other horses fell. Herve, who had the mount on Meisner, extricated himself, leaped upon the nearest horse, and went after the leaders.

The shouts of the crowd brought home to him that he was riding Souvenir, a 15 to 1 chance, while the favorite, Herve, pulled up and rode dejectedly into the paddock.

Opening Hockey Match in City December Fifth

President Richardson Releases Schedule for Season—Saskatoon Here First—Fifteen Home Games

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—Sounds like a golf term, but President Richardson announces that the qualifying round of 1925-26 western hockey season begins at Vancouver on November 29, and finishes at Calgary on the night of March 9.

Then comes the championship round, which will be slightly different from other years since the thrilling play-off system was introduced, inasmuch as the club winning out of the qualifying round by at least five points must be beaten at home by the second or third club emerging from the first round.

In other words, the team that wins the regular season honors by a margin of five points or more, the players will rest easy until the second and third clubs have played off, when the victors of this clash must come to this city and play both final games here.

This has been done because officials were far-sighted enough to realize it is illogical to penalize a club that has fought its championship form all season by sending it to an outside city, where rink conditions may be strange to them and where a margin of goals might be wiped up by a mediocre club, sufficient to ensure them the final title.

The Western Hockey League home games scheduled for Victoria are as follows:

Saturday, Dec. 5: Saskatoon at Victoria.
Wednesday, Dec. 9: Vancouver at Victoria.
Saturday, Dec. 12: Calgary at Victoria.
Friday, Dec. 18: Portland at Victoria.
Friday, Jan. 1: Edmonton at Victoria.
Friday, Jan. 8: Vancouver at Victoria.
Friday, Jan. 15: Portland at Victoria.
Monday, Jan. 18: Edmonton at Victoria.
Friday, Jan. 22: Saskatoon at Victoria.
Friday, Jan. 29: Calgary at Victoria.
Friday, Feb. 12: Portland at Victoria.

Wednesday League Soccer

Three Games on Today's Schedule—League Leaders at Home to Tillamums at Work Point

Wednesday League football fixtures for today are: Rennie & Taylors vs. Kirrkham, Central Park, referees Haines, Gartson vs. Tillamums, at Work Point, referee Alcock; Hudson's Bays vs. Navy, at Beacon Hill, referees Haines. All games are scheduled to commence at 3 p.m.

With three games on today's card followers of the midweek soccer league have a good programme and to pick the best game will be difficult.

At Central Park

Rennie & Taylors, who last week signalled their entry in the Wednesday League by taking the measure of the Tillamums, will try and keep in the winning column at the expense of Kirrkham. The latter club have shown improvement since their initial appearance and should give the bakers a good battle today.

While these teams are competing for soccer honors at Central Park the Tillamums will journey to Work Point to try conclusions with the league-leading Tommies. The Clubmen have a good team and can be relied upon to give their soldier opponents a merry time. If the soldiers win they will retain the midweek soccer leadership which they are at present holding. At Beacon Hill the Navy eleven will meet the Hudson's Bays for the first time this season. At their initial appearance the sailor boys held Kirrkham to a 1-1 draw and today they will be out for victory at the expense of the department store eleven. The Hudson's Bays have one draw to their credit in two games and if they want to figure in the running they should chalk up a victory today. Last week they were a little weak, but today they will be out at full strength.

Today's lineups are announced as follows:

Tillamums—Peden; McIntyre and Pickup; Hall, Hocking and Fletcher; Patterson, Rutledge, Southern, Woods and A. N. Other. Reserve, Thomas and Armstrong.

Hudson's Bays—Shrimpton; McKay and Gardiner; Malm, Webster and Kirrkham; Addie, Woodley, Gibson, Hansen and Calvey. Reserve, Malm. Rennie & Taylors—Heatherhill; Hay and Newman; Anderson, Tupman and Gilbert; McLeod, Muir, Speake, Hawkes and McKinnon.

Dempsey Given Riotous Welcome in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, made a fighting entry into Mexico City last night. Not that he personally participated, but nevertheless his arrival was celebrated by a number of fights in the throng of admirers who gathered at the station to greet him. Soldiers with fixed bayonets were hurriedly summoned to bring crushed to death by the mob. And there were plenty of bloody noses and cracked heads to show how well the troops and the police did their job.

The champion has come to Mexico for a series of exhibition bouts with his sparring partners. He will make his appearance in the ring next Saturday. Afterwards he will go to Tampico and Monterey, and thence proceed to San Antonio, Texas, on the way to Los Angeles.

J.B.A.A. and "Oaks" Will Provide Opening Rugby Game on Saturday

Mr. George Jay Will Kick Off Ball at Canteen Grounds, Esquimalt, at 3:15 P.M.—Willows Grounds Found to Be Too Hard—Both Teams Ready

Senior rugby will be officially ushered in for the season next Saturday afternoon at the Canteen Grounds, Esquimalt, when the J.B.A.A. last year's champions, meet the newly-formed Oak Bay Oaks at 3:15. Mr. George Jay, president of the Rugby Union, will officiate at the opening and will kick the ball off.

The Canteen ground has been selected for the opening game on account of the Willows Park being too hard. An inspection of the grounds was made yesterday by officials of the union and it was found that the recent heavy rains have only penetrated the surface. The union is not desirous of taking any chances of having any of its players injured and other grounds will be used until the Willows is soft enough.

The two teams billed for Saturday's opener should put up a stiff encounter. The J.B.A.A. will be opposed by several of their last year's stars, who will be appearing in the colors of the Oaks. Both teams have been practicing for several weeks past and have several new players.

Oaks Are Strong Included in the Oaks' line-up will be Walter and "Cotton" Brynjolfsson, Hec Goodacre, "Tiny" Watson, Jack MacDonald, Hugh Beck and several other stars of last year. Just who Bob McInnes has to wear the blue and white this season is a matter of doubt, but it is understood that he will have Bennie McMillan, Donnie McLea and Hendrick, along with a number of his intermediate stars and seniors of last season.

Through the lateness in opening of the season, on account of the dry weather, the local Rugby Union decided to ask the B. C. Rugby Union to postpone their opening McKechnie Cup match with the Varsity in Vancouver on November 21. It was found that it would be rather difficult to pick an all-star team with only two teams performing on Saturday.

The draw for this first three games made at last night's meeting was as follows:

October 31—J.B.A.A. vs. Oak Bay Oaks, at Canteen Grounds.

November 7—Oak Bay Oaks vs. United Service.

November 14—United Service vs. J.B.A.A.

Colwood Lady Golfers Win Match at Duncan

The team match between ladies of the Colwood Golf Club and ladies of the Duncan Golf Club played at Duncan yesterday resulted in a victory for the Colwood ladies. On account of the steady rain which drenched the players in the morning round when singles were played, the four-ball matches were abandoned. The scores follow:

Touring Soccer Team Will Come to Coast

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—The Evening Telegram says today:

"It has been definitely decided that the English representative soccer team to tour Canada next season will travel from coast to coast, instead of ending the trip west at Winnipeg. The itinerary has not been arranged, but it will be along the lines approved for the Scottish tour of 1921, which will permit of the players spending almost six weeks in Canada. The Association has advised Dominion headquarters that only a strong team will be sent."

Robert Kinsey Winner Over Best of Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—Robert Kinsey, of Victoria, B.C., today eliminated Ignacio de la Borbolla, considered Mexico's best player, from the Mexican national tennis championships in the men's singles. The match was hard fought, but the American maintained his superiority throughout.

Pirate Booty Spurious

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 27.—A number of Pirate supporters who placed their money on the Pittsburgh club and then thought they had "dined up" when their favorites won the world series, now find they did not win a cent, police having received numerous complaints that the money was "covered" with bogus certified cheques. Police figured that a total of $100,000 was covered by spurious money.

Sportive Punches

By the "Old 'Un"

That was some fight last night between Wills and Johnson. "Some" fight seems to us to be good English on this occasion. It was just some fight, but not very much fight.

Shades of—well, any decent heavyweight fighter now passed into the beyond of sport history. The towel in the ring after two minutes of the first round!

If that had happened with the old-timers engaged, or even the near-moderns of the ring, whatever had taken place up to then you can be sure there would have been some fight thereafter.

AND ONE OF THE SECONDS WOULD HAVE FIGURED IMMEDIATELY AS ONE OF THE PRINCIPALS.

In the days of the real fighters they didn't throw up the sponge very early in the proceedings, and it is hard to imagine the seconds of any of them doing it in the first two minutes with their man on his feet, unless he had at least two arms and one leg broken.

No wonder "there were cries of 'fak' as the boxers departed," to quote from the press dispatches. Although at first thought one would hardly have supposed that, if a fight was to be faked, they wouldn't allow it to go a little longer to make it look more genuine.

The Old 'Un is not of a particularly suspicious nature, but in professional heavyweight fighting of today among the near-champions you never can tell what they are playing at.

The only thing you can be dead sure of is they are playing the old game of coaxing the public's money out of the public's pockets into their own.

When men fight for purses amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, the propping and glory part of the business is hardly likely to appeal to one of the mentality of the average prizefighter as will the opportunity of blinding their eyes of cleaning up a sudden and enormous fortune.

Men of high education and intelligence fall before smaller temptations. It is hardly fair to expect a "brute" to always show himself their superior in the ethics of his battle warfare.

Now hear them say "Look how easily WILLS brushed this man JORNSON out of his path. Wills is, as you can plainly now see, the right man to fight DEMPSEY. How can he be denied the chance any longer?" (Jeers and laughter.)

Well, we're not behind the scenes, but we have an idea that another man of the name of JOHNSON (colored) had indirectly a good deal to do with the difficulty WILLS had and has to get a chance to become America's second colored champion heavyweight of the world.

Making Effort to Conservé Antelope

Approximately 30,000 Still Existing Out of Former Thirty to Forty Millions

Difficult as such an undertaking may seem, a careful census has been taken of the pronghorn antelope in North America, and the areas now occupied by these big game animals approximately determined. The pronghorn is the only species of antelope native to America. Through the occupation of its territory by man it has been exterminated from many of its former haunts, but has survived in scattered small herds over a very large portion of its original range in sixteen of the Western states of America and in Canada and Mexico. In 1922 it became evident that the time had come for taking conservation measures leading to the conservation of the dwindling numbers of the antelope if its extermination were to be averted, and accordingly a census was conducted during the following two years by field men of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, with the cooperation of conservation societies, state agencies and individuals not only in the United States but also in Canada and Mexico. The results of this census constitute the larger part of a report just published by the department on the "Status of the Pronghorn Antelope, 1922-1924," by Dr. Edward W. Nelson, chief of the bureau of biological survey, as department bulletin No. 1344.

Scattered Bands

According to the results reported by Dr. Nelson, there are now approximately 30,000 pronghorn existing in North America in a total of 246 scattered bands. These numbers seem sadly meagre in comparison with the millions once inhabiting this continent. It has been estimated that the buffalo herds of this country at one time numbered from thirty to sixty million animals, and in view of the greater territory occupied by the pronghorn, it may be considered a conservative estimate to place its probable original numbers not less than thirty to forty millions, and probably more.

Protective Measures

A factor favorably influencing the conservation of the pronghorn is the attitude of such leading conservation organizations as the Boone and Crockett Club, the American Wildlife Protection Fund, the American Bison Society and the California Associated Societies for the Conservation of Wild Life, all of which are interested in the future of the antelope. This factor, together with the establishment of refuges and the execution of re-stocking experiments, will play an important part in the conservation of the antelope.

Copies of the antelope bulletin may be obtained upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

Slovaks Make Good Farmers, Says Official

Moulding a Nation Out of Conflicting Races in Central Europe Is Success, C.P.R. Officer Reports

Many Seek to Emigrate

While Czechoslovakia is one of the European countries which has regulations against active campaigning for immigrants, migration is permitted by authority of the Minister of Social Service for certain classes, according to Mr. Edward Schmitz, general representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Prague, the capital.

Mr. Schmitz, who arrived in the city yesterday, is making a tour to familiarise himself with conditions in this Dominion, and to see how the Slovaks who have migrated here are doing. He emphasises that the section of that country which has hitherto supplied immigrants to Canada is the area formerly in the Hungarian territory occupied by the Slovaks, who are almost exclusively agricultural, and accustomed to all classes of farming, many under conditions not differing greatly from the Canadian Prairies.

Favors Canada

One reason why the Czechoslovakian Government adopts a passive attitude to migration to this Dominion, if initiated by the proposed migrant and not by solicitation—because no propaganda is allowed by the railway company to return an unsuccessful immigrant from Canada, while those going to South America have no such guarantee and may become public charges.

Effect of Quota

The abandonment of the heavy

migration to the United States by the enforcement of the quota has directed attention to Canada. Mr. Schmitz says, and he has already 3,000 inquiries on his books for the next season of farmers and peasants anxious to migrate to this country.

Mr. Schmitz says that although the country in its corporate life is only seven years old, Czechoslovakia has made great progress in putting its financial conditions in order, in restoring confidence, and in harmonizing the conflicting problems created by four or five races, and in getting industries and agriculture into shape. Czechoslovakia is regarded as the most prosperous of the countries called into life by the disintegration of the former dominions of the Hapsburgs.

He will leave this afternoon for Seattle.

Mr. Ackerman Becomes Power in Finance

Lieut.-Col. Charles H. Ackerman, cousin of Mrs. Stuart Munnell, of this city and formerly of Peterboro, Ontario, has recently sold the Rouyn mine to the Terminus syndicate for over one million dollars. Mr. Ackerman went overseas with the First Contingent, and achieved a distinguished career in the Great War. Mr. Ackerman was severely wounded and finally invalided home. Since that time he has taken an active part in business. His initiative being of value to his financial associates. He is one of a group of men closely identified with the Tuckett Tobacco Co. and expanded measurably. This will be dealt with as it affects each section of the country. In general, there has been no radical change in the industrial situation, the Pacific Coast area being a possible exception.

At the moment, business activity is greater on the Pacific Coast than in any other section of the country. This is due to increased trade with the Orient, and with Eastern Canada and the United States through the Panama Canal; to the effect of the huge reversion increase on the Prairies; to the growth of Vancouver as a distributing

Business

Savings Banks Deposits Show Increase — Western Outlook Good — Telephone Company Expands Earnings Power — Demand for Cigarettes Increases — Motor Truck Production

The major factor today in the crop situation in judging conditions, says The Financial Post. When this is combined with freight car loading figures, of products other than the crops, an accurate index of conditions is obtained for the various sections of the country.

Two or three factors may be first mentioned as affecting all parts of the country similarly. Bank figures just published show that business is not inefficiently active anywhere to press the banks for funds. Savings deposits have increased by $5,000,000. Loans are $335,000,000 lower than deposits, while during periods of prosperity prior to the war loans exceeded deposits by from $175,000,000 to $300,000,000. On the other hand, the most recent report of car loadings shows a sharp turn upward. Those for the last week in September were higher than for any week for at least three years. While the grain was the largest factor in this, merchandise loadings also expanded measurably. This will be dealt with as it affects each section of the country. In general, there has been no radical change in the industrial situation, the Pacific Coast area being a possible exception.

centre; to favorable conditions in fishing and lumber, and secondly, on the farm. The important items are the first three. As a consequence of all these factors, the increase in the volume of business in the Coast area, over last year, is greater than that of any other section.

While the $5,000,000 issue of Bell Telephone first mortgage five per cent gold bonds, announced this week, is being sold nominally in the United States, a block of the bonds will be sold in the Canadian market by the Royal Securities Corporation. The price is ninety-nine and accrued interest and the yield approximately 8.05 per cent.

The telephone business is one whose growth and earning power are assured. Like the food industries, the telephone is an essential in good times and bad, and there is a probability that had times merely increase its use. The rapid growth of the industry during recent years is shown in a pamphlet recently distributed by the Bell Telephone Company. It is shown that for every 100 people the United States has 13.7 telephones. Canada is second with eleven. The gross earnings of the industry have expanded rapidly, and show every promise of continuing to do so. The net earnings of the Canadian system, during the four years ending December 31, 1924, have averaged 4.07 times bond interest charges.

The Hamilton plant of the Tuckett Tobacco Co. is operating overtime. Only recently the company established a new record for cigarette shipments of over two million cigarettes in a single day. A new packing machine was installed some time ago and the successful operation of this outfit has resulted in the purchase of another machine.

The motor truck industry this year seems certain to establish a new annual production record, says a Detroit estimate. The eight months' output thus far reported requires only two months of average production to equal last year's output of $77,991 trucks. If the last four months maintain the same ratio to total year's output as the past three years, 1925 production will approximate 445,000, which is fourteen per cent above the previous record year, 1923.

Seaplane Travels 245 Miles Per Hour, Fastest Time for Water Craft

BAY SHORE PARK, Baltimore, Md., Oct. 27.—Another laurel rests tonight on the brow of Lieut. James H. Doolittle, of the United States Army.

Lieut. Doolittle late today catapulted his black Curtiss racer across a three-kilometre course in the fastest time ever made by a seaplane—245.71 miles per hour. The mark will become the official world's record for maximum seaplane speed when recognized by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. It was made on a special speed test which Lieut. Doolittle entered alone.

Veteran Missionary Dies at Eighty-One

NELSON, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Mary A. Currie, who as Miss Maria Esther Armstrong sailed from Nova Scotia for Burma as a Baptist missionary, fifty-one years ago, later marrying Rev. George Frederic Currie, died at her home in Nelson tonight in her eighty-first year. She is survived by her son, H. H. Currie, and her second daughter, Mrs. Neil S. Houston, both of Nelson, and a sister, Mrs. George O. Gates, of Wolfville, N.B. Her husband died in India in 1886.

Who Sent Canadian Grain Through United States Ports?

—the Answer Is on Page 1718, Hansard, the Official Record of Parliament

Hansard quotes the Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Conservative Government: "As a result of conferences, application has been made to the Interstate Commerce Commission in the United States for leave to file grain rates from the Northwest down to Minneapolis and Duluth, and so ease the pressure in the congested districts by taking the grain away from the more Western areas, down towards the South."

Is it possible that Mr. Foster, Conservative, did not know that Canada had ports on the Pacific Coast? Or, isn't it likely that Mr. Foster and his Conservative colleagues did not wish to interfere with that barrier to Western development—discriminating freight rates? Perhaps Mr. Foster was prevented from diverting this grain through Western Canadian ports by the same sinister influences which have since prevented the Conservative Party and its members from making any effort to remove this discriminating freight rates barrier.

These unfair rates have paid the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway $234,000,000 greater profits on their lines West of Fort William than they received from their lines East of Fort William during the years 1905 to 1920. These millions of dollars are a direct and unfair tax on the pockets of Western people. These unfair rates constitute a barrier between the Western plains and the Pacific Ocean, which denies Canada the value of the Pacific and the Panama Canal as trade routes to the world's markets. They have no justification. Operating expenses of the railways in the West are actually less per mile than the railways in the East.

Just what has been the result of this Conservative policy of diverting Canadian grain to U.S. ports? The ports of Prince Rupert, Victoria and Vancouver have been retarded in development, immeasurably.

During the months of August and September of this year, more than 25,000,000 bushels of Canadian grain has poured through U.S. ports. Only slightly more than 1,000,000 bushels has passed through Western Canadian ports. These rates have cost the Western farmers $25,000,000 a year in cold cash, which they have paid because they were forced to ship their grain over the long haul, East, through U.S. ports. It has retarded the development of the great hinterland of Canada's Pacific ports—Alberta, Western Saskatchewan and the Peace River country. This hinterland has natural riches which will support 48,000,000 people, and build a trade and commerce which will make great Canadian cities on this Pacific Coast. It has made Victoria, Prince Rupert and Vancouver mere coastwise ports, instead of gateways to world's trade and commerce. It has provided employment for U.S. labor. It has made tonnage for U.S. railways. It has built U.S. ports. It has enriched U.S. citizens.

The voters of Victoria may well ask how, in the face of these startling facts, Dr. Tolmie can ask the endorsement of our Western people, as a supporter of the Conservative leader, Mr. Arthur Meighen, who recently made the statement that equalized freight rates were "utterly indefensible."

The records are quite clear. The Conservative Party are responsible for diverting this Canadian grain to U.S. ports. Mr. Meighen and his followers offer absolutely no hope to the West. Irrespective of what the local Conservative Candidate may say, Mr. Meighen has committed himself to his supporters in the East with his "utterly indefensible" attitude toward equalization of freight rates.

Mackenzie King has passed this famous Order-in-Council, which will be enforced, providing he secures a majority in the next Government: "The policy of equalization of freight rates should be recognized as being the only means of dealing equitably with all parts of Canada."

Mackenzie King Is for the West--The West Is for Mackenzie King

Joe Lynch and Vic Foley Draw

Vancouver and San Francisco Bantams Have Ding-Dong Bout in Seattle Ring

SEATTLE, Oct. 27.—Joe Lynch, San Francisco, fought six rounds to a draw with Vic Foley, Vancouver, B.C., bantamweight champion of Canada, and claimant to the Pacific Coast title, in a main event here tonight. Both were over weight, the Northerner scaling 121 1/2 and the Southerner 121 1/4.

In the main event there was little to choose between the work of the two little fellows. Foley started off with a winning clip, but Lynch rallied the last three rounds and evened up the going with hard socks.

For three rounds the Vancouver boy loomed as a certain winner. A Foster Clip

He stepped around at a much faster clip than he did against Young Nationalists here several weeks ago. He had practically all of Lynch's blows blocked, and kept jabbing away with his right. Lynch began to get warmed up in the fourth, and opened up a cut under Foley's left eye. The fifth session was about even, and so was the last. They both slugged through the final two cantos trying for a knockout.

Free-Hitting Ball Game Is Won by Colonels

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—Louisville, champions of the American Association, defeated San Francisco, champions of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, in a free-hitting contest today by a score of eleven to nine. The Seals used five pitchers in an effort to check the batting rampage of the Colonels, who used three.

Score—

San Francisco	9	14	1
Louisville	11	13	1

Batteries: Williams, Griffin, McWeeny, Crockett, Mitchell and Yella, Ritchie, Deberry, Koop, Wilkinson and Myer.

Allan Cup must have its entry in before November 2. Entries must be sent to Secretary Richardson, 18th Avenue East, Vancouver.

Taylor Beat Snell

VERNON, Cal., Oct. 27.—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., featherweight, took a decision over Dou Snell, of Seattle in a ten-round bout here tonight. Taylor outpointed Snell virtually all the way, taking eight of the ten rounds. Cyclone Palmer, claimant of the 130-pound title of the Northwest, won a close decision over Sammy Santos, San Diego lightweight, in the six-round semi-windup.

Champion Loses Title

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Andre Routis, bantamweight champion of France, lost his title tonight in a 15-round fight with "Kid" Francis, a Marseilles boy, who learned boxing in Argentina. Francis outclassed Routis and won on points.

Curious Origin of Building Is Recalled

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—A brokerage firm is making interior alterations in the Parrot Building, a structure built in 1852 of stones brought from China.

When the ship sailed in from Hong Kong and landed at the single wharf the city then had, Chinese coolies secured the great stones to bamboo poles and carried them to the site. There was no derrick, and the stones were lifted into place by a primitive system of poles and ropes. But the coolies, directed by an American contractor, did a good job.

The little three-story building stood staunchly through the seventy-two years of progress. It was one of the few downtown to survive the earthquake and fire of 1906. It presents a strange contrast to the glossy surfaces of the giant structures of San Francisco's Wall Street. Although interior improvements are being made the exterior, built to endure, will not be changed.

A later report is that 1,000 lives were lost and seventy boats destroyed.

At the Playhouses

COLUMBIA—Preceding the filming of Universal's most daring jungle picture, a school for lions was conducted on the studio lot at Universal City, California, with the students being ten cubs ranging in age from five weeks to six months. The cubs were trained by Charles H. Murphy, chief animal trainer of the Universal Zoo, to act in "Lorraine of the Lions," a Universal Jewel, starring Norman Kerry, now showing at the Columbia Theatre today for the last time. The cubs were all born at the studio menagerie and were prepared for their motion picture debut in Lorraine's story which was directed by Edward Redwick.

PLAYHOUSE—Playing a difficult dramatic role with all the subtlety, force and cleverness of a stage veteran, Marie Prevost proves her right to a prominent place in film stardom with her remarkable performance in John Mr. Stahl's new production, "The Wanters," a first National picture, now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Miss Prevost has been in pictures for years, working her way to fame from an obscure beginning in comedies, but was not until Mr. Stahl chose her for the star part in "The Wanters" that she received an opportunity in keeping with her unusual ability for great characterization.

Monsters Star in Conan Doyle Film At Capitol Theatre

A whole flock of new stars are soon to arrive in Victoria. The visitors are Messrs. Brontosaurus, Triceratops, Megalosaurus, Allosaurus, Trachodon and Diplodocus. For the benefit of those who might not recognize these new film aspirants, it is announced that they are members of the Dinosaur family who, according to scientists, should have passed out of the picture ten million years ago. The ladies and gentlemen with the unpronounceable cognomens are scheduled to make their appearance

"White Cargo" Opens

At Royal Victoria on Thursday, October 29

"White Cargo," coming to the Royal on Thursday, has recently been singled out for much abuse; it has successfully withstood the onslaughts and has achieved security. In its sin is scourged and the sinners come to grief. As for the human material in it, is anybody going to stand up and say they have not met—yes, shaken hands with—all the types so faithfully portrayed. Such types swarm around us today. The only important points are: Have men in the terrific heat of Africa, away from the refining influences of home, behaved as the men in "White Cargo" do, and to this there is only one answer. They have, and frequently under far less provocation. The rest is irrelevant.

Dickens Club Discusses

"Tale of Two Cities"

The meeting of the Victoria Dickens Club, which took place at the residence of the club treasurer, Mrs. Gray, Alkazar Mansions, Monday evening, was well attended. An excellent paper on the character of Sidney Carton, "Tale of Two Cities," was well prepared and read by Mrs. Henderson, who very kindly has promised similar papers for the coming meetings of the club this winter. Two more chapters from the "Tale of Two Cities" were also read and discussed.

The president, Mr. C. C. Pemberton, gave a short extract from G. K. Chesterton's splendid book on Charles Dickens. He also referred to the work, "Joseph Grimaldi," edited by "Box," which is the life of the first of the great clowns and comedians of the English stage and which has been the cause of much debate in the press from time to time as to its actual authorship.

Lovers of Charles Dickens, the man, and his works, are always made welcome by the president and members of the Victoria Dickens Club.

Liberal Candidate Addresses Women

Mrs. Stanley Brown, of Vancouver, Also Speaks at Chamber of Commerce Meeting

Addressing a meeting held yesterday afternoon, in the Chamber of Commerce, under the auspices of the Victoria Liberal Women's organization, at which the chair was taken by Mrs. Stuart Henderson, Mr. William K. Ivel reviewed the Liberal arguments against high tariffs which, he said, were not proving satisfactory to the United States, and the large industries, the bankers, the industrial workers, were all demanding that the high tariffs be taken off because they were making the price of commodities too high for the consumer.

If Canada could not make her basic industries, agriculture, lumber, mining, fishing, successful, how could she hope to make any other industry successful? A Liberman in this city had told him not long since that one reason lumber had not been a success in the past had been because of inefficiency, caused by the high cost of replacing worn-out machinery. Port Angeles, for instance, paid only $32,000 for a machine which in Victoria cost nearly $100,000. It was because of this that the Liberals had worked for reduction of tariff, he said.

Mr. Ivel made a point of the fact that it was considered that any Government required two years to put its house in order after "taking over." On this basis the Liberals had been in force only two years, "and in that two years conditions in Canada are getting much better." Unemployment was claimed to be fifty per cent better than it was four years ago. If the high tariffs were the panacea for all ills, why had Canada not been in better condition when the Conservatives were in power and maintained the high tariffs?

West Had Suffered
The West had suffered, he said, by the discriminatory freight rates, which put twenty-eight cents more per 100 pounds on freight moving East than that moving West. That twenty-eight cents meant that Western manufacturers could not go further east than Regina. In reference to the preferential trade relations between Canada and Australia, and South Africa, Mr. Ivel said that the result had been that the West was finding great increase in its westbound trade, which in the past two years had grown from twelve to ninety-two millions.

Quite a sharp development was essential to Victoria, said the speaker. Recognizing that she had an isolated position, she should also recognize that shipping development was her biggest asset. The establishment of an elevator here would provide Victoria with a wonderful opportunity in view of the congested condition of the tracks over which the wheat trains run to Vancouver.

"Facilities must be ahead of the business. If we get the elevator here it will develop a big shipping business," argued the speaker, who argued that by erecting a high tariff wall between Canada and the United States the tariffists of the Canadian manufacturer would be stifled for lack of competition.

Conservatives Criticized
Mrs. Stanley Brown, of Vancouver, spoke criticizing the Conservatives, pleading her plea for a return of a Liberal candidate from Victoria on the advantages she claimed Vancouver had enjoyed under the Liberal regime at Ottawa.

"Vancouver is quite satisfied with the existing conditions," she said. "There is not a manufacturer in Vancouver but recognizes the solid and substantial development which has taken place here during the last four years. Mackenzie King revealed such shabby treatment that he just about overstepped the bounds to give Vancouver what she has," she maintained. "What benefits Vancouver and the rest of the Mainland must benefit Victoria."

Costs Duly Specified In Fine Inflicted Under Opium Act

Chun Yick was yesterday convicted of having opium in his possession, and was accordingly given a prison term and a fine, or, under failure to pay the latter, a longer term in jail. Profiting by the past experience in this Province, where the absence to inflict costs and duly specify these has led to appeals by way of habeas corpus proceedings, Police Magistrate Jay took pains to specify costs in this case.

The accused was sentenced to six months imprisonment, together with a fine of $200 and costs, amounting to $22.75, or in default of the payment of this fine a further term of three months in jail.

Mr. Stuart Henderson, who appeared for accused, held that he should not be convicted of the charge of having opium in possession. He pointed out that the evidence went to show that he was in the act of getting ready to smoke. This, he contended, was not possession as contemplated under the act.

The fascination of good Teeth

Beautiful teeth—as fair and lovely as the smile that reveals them—are truly fascinating. Their whiteness heightens the charm of ruby lips, and reflects the glowing health of their owner.

But the beauty of teeth is only enamel-deep. A gritty cleanser is dangerous to their lustre.

Colgate's Dental Cream contains no harmful grit. It is designed like a good toilet soap—with respect for the surface it must cleanse.

Keep your fascination. Use Colgate's twice a day, and consult the Dentist twice a year.

Concrete Age Now Here Says British Engineer

GLOUCESTER, Eng., Oct. 27.—The world is now entering the concrete age that will last forever, after having seen the stone age, the iron age and the steam, declared T. J. Clark, of the Institute of Structural Engineers, here before the technical school.

Already, he said, people are walking on concrete pavements, riding on concrete roads, traveling over concrete railway sleepers, living in concrete houses, and working in concrete offices as well as housing their cattle in concrete farm buildings, storing grain in concrete silos and finally, he said, they are sleeping peacefully beneath concrete tombstones.

Distinguishing Features

The work of a Life Insurance representative is made easier when the policies of his Company help to sell themselves by the liberality of their terms or the features they embody. The Field Men of the Ontario Equitable Life have developed an enviable underwriting record, among other reasons because of the following features of their Policy Contracts.

1. They are worded and printed plainly, that their provisions may be understood by the insured.
2. Their Double Indemnity Provision in case of accidental death, and Disability Provision in case of total and permanent disability, are distinctively liberal.
3. They include an offer of Free Periodic Health Examinations, valuable in prolonging the insured's life. (The Company never learns the result of any such examination.)
4. Above all, they require Non-participating (Low Cost) premiums only, and the initially low rate is constant and GUARANTEED, making satisfying, businesslike contracts.

Tariff Issue Debated by Mr. Stevens

Former Minister of Trade and Customs Speaks on Behalf Mr. C. H. Dickie, Nanaimo Candidate

Shirts Made by "Sweated" Labor

NANAIMO, Oct. 27.—In the first six months of the present year 24,000 tons of Washington lignite coal had been imported into British Columbia owing to Liberal interpretation of the customs laws. Hon. H. H. Stevens told an audience here last evening. Senator Flinta presided.

Mr. A. J. England dwelt on the lack of support which the Liberal Government had given to the establishment of steel plants in Canada, and in British Columbia in particular. He maintained that this lack of support had injured the coal production, because as if steel plants had been encouraged the mines of the country, mining coal, would have been working full time, and steel would not have been imported from the United States. Mr. England devoted considerable time to showing that the Government had realized the importance of establishing the steel industry in Canada, but had given promises instead of real help, and had discouraged every indication of an establishment of the industry here.

Mr. Stevens speaks
Hon. H. H. Stevens stated that he had several purposes in addressing the audience. The first was, perhaps, to convince them that they should give their unqualified support to Mr. Dickie in the coming election. The second was to discuss Conservative policies and deal with the criticism of his opponents. Mr. Stevens stated that Mr. Dickie was one who was looked upon in the House as a safe, sane and responsible legislator. He was a man who was called upon to discuss national policy and politics. He was not only a man fit to represent his party on a national issue. "According to press reports," said Mr. Stevens, "I am credited with representing the Eastern interests. This is because I try to represent a national policy as well as one for the riding from which I am elected. Mr. Dickie looks on his duties in the same light."

Promise of Taxation
The Liberals had not made good on their promise of reducing taxation, although they quoted a reduction of 35 millions in sales tax. This simply meant that there had been a $700,000,000 drop in the tax revenue and was no sign of prosperity. The income tax returns had fallen $350,000,000 last year. This was not an indication of prosperity. It shows a falling off in business. "It shows," maintained the speaker, "that you are earning less in Canada. There has been no reduction in taxes," Mr. Stevens then spoke of the extravagant expenditures of the Government. He had drawn it to the attention of the Government itself, and when they realized that he was right, they could only blink. The case was that of the Agricultural Department at Ottawa, where it was shown in expenditures that the sum of $144,233 had been expended for traveling expenses alone.

Lack of System
Mr. Stevens said that an investigation showed that the report showed that the cost of transportation for certain individuals had cost five times as much in certain places as it had for individuals in other places, showing, he maintained, a lack of system and oversight. The Government also made the claim that it had reduced the number of civil servants. Mr. King's analysis had shown that he had reduced the number in his district by thirty-nine, but had added 153 to the superannuated list which had amounted to, in pensions, $19,000. Of this number of superannuated, one-half or three-quarters were still fit for another ten years, but they were forced to retire to make room for other claimants for jobs.

Another promise of the Liberals had been that they would reduce the cost of living. The speaker then dealt with the report of the Minister of Labor, Hon. Mr. Murdoch, quoting figures as presented by him, showing a slight increase in the cost of living under the Liberal regime. Mr. Stevens next dealt with the exodus of Canadians from Canada, to seek work in the United States. He pointed out that the Welland Canal had been ordered from Oregon, and when the British Columbia members protested that British Columbia should not supply the logs, they were told that even if this were so, there was a time limit of three months, but the order had not been filled.

Mr. Stevens referred to Hon. Mr. Sloan's remarks as to protection on bituminous coal for Nova Scotia, at thirty-five cents per ton. He maintained that this had been claimed by Mr. Sloan, injured Nanaimo. Mr. Stevens then stated that the aim of the Conservatives was to see not only coal, but all products of Canada protected.

Two Woolen Shirts
Mr. Stevens said Premier King had lowered the woolen schedule. The speaker maintained this had put 24,000 operators out of jobs in Canada, and many of them had gone to the United States to look for work. He then produced two woolen shirts, which he said, had been purchased in Vancouver yesterday, from the Woodward store, one was of Canadian manufacture, the other, a little inferior in manufacture and inferior in goods, made in Japan, and sold for fifty-nine cents.

The first was the product of Canadian manufacturers, where they operated under a minimum wage; the latter was made in Japan, with child labor in great shape. If the Liberals would say that the Canadian manufacturer must compete with the Japanese manufacturer, they would be fair.

this class of labor (working for a few cents a week), and pay a minimum wage in Canada. It could not be done. With the lowering of tariff, maintained the speaker, Canada admitted hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of these cheap goods, made by cheap Chinese labor.

Mr. Stevens then produced other goods, and quoted the Canadian prices and those of the imported goods, endeavoring to show that with decent wages paid by the Canadian manufacturers, they could not compete with the sweat shop labor prices of European countries, especially when many of these goods made in Japan were exhibited in store windows, and marked "Made in the Old Country."

Navy League Holds Entertainment At Deep Cove

DEEP COVE, Oct. 27.—One of the best entertainments held in the district was given under the auspices of the local branch of the Navy League on Friday evening last, in the Social Club Hall. The programme consisted of several splendid turns and was entirely by a naval party under the direction of Paymaster-Lieut. Cossette.

The programme opened with a pianoforte solo, entitled "Nola," by S. P. O. Tel. Wickenden, the next item being a song, "Poor Little Boy of Mine," excellently rendered by S. P. O. Tel. Wickenden, who was forced to give an encore. "The Jewish Wedding," presented by request by Mr. Cossette, was very good, and was, without doubt, a portrayal to life.

This was followed by song, "Shipmate of Mine," by E. R. A. Pearson, who responded to an encore with "Friend of Mine."

The comic song given by E. R. A. Arnold, however, won for him a warm reception, and his natural jovial disposition soon proclaimed him favorite with those present.

The monologue given by P. O. Tel. Wickenden on "How He Saved the Barge," was very realistic; but the best item, on the whole programme, was left until last, and was a sketch, entitled "Mrs. Brown's Dog," by Lieut. Cossette and E. R. A. Arnold, which kept the audience in an uproar of laughter throughout.

This turn would prove a "headliner" on any bill, and was a worthy ending to what was considered by those present as a splendid programme.

The Navy League is entitled to much praise for obtaining such a splendid array of talent, and it is hoped that at some near date in the future we may once again be favored by these artists.

The music for the dance which followed was provided by Messrs. Ford and Arnold.

The committee in charge of the entertainment were: Messdames Belsom, L. Layard, Herchermer and Cope, and the Misses Belsom and Layard. The chair was taken by Major Layard, president of this branch of the League.

Members Will Elect Hall Committee

COLWOOD, Oct. 27.—A public meeting is being held in the Colwood hall on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of electing a hall committee. On Saturday evening a hall committee will be held in the hall commencing at 8 o'clock. A programme, which includes a sketch of "Humorous Incidents at Colwood," will be produced. Refreshments will be served by the members of the Women's Institute and others. Many whistlers and card players are expected in abundance.

Bobbed Hair
How to Keep it Thick, Healthy, Vigorous

The constant curling and waving demanded by modern style in hair dress, slowly burns the color, lustre, and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, streaked with gray; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Dandarine" will do wonders for any girl's hair. This vitalizing beauty tonic acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine act on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

Try this for one week! While combing and dressing your hair, moisten your hair brush with a little "Dandarine" and brush it through your hair—the effect is startling! Your hair immediately takes on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, becomes incomparably soft, wavy and appears twice as thick and abundant.

Women's Institute Holds Card Party

KEATING, Oct. 27.—The South Saanich Women's Institute held its regular card party in the Temperance Hall on Saturday evening, with a splendid attendance, there being fourteen tables in play. Three tables tied for first honors, the final winners being Miss Nellie Ryan, Miss Annie Taylor, Mr. F. Tanner and Mr. Gildred. Second honors went to Mrs. Glendine, Miss Jean Russell, Mr. R. Handall and Mr. R. Mitchell. Two couples cut for high bid, the lucky winners being Miss L. Ryan and Mr. Douglas. The score of each player was recorded after the game, and the score will be kept after each game until the end of December, when a prize will be awarded the man and woman holding the highest score.

Refreshments were served after the game by the committee, Messdames J. J. Young, R. Handall, F. Young and Gold.

Dancing to music kindly supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Hickling, of Victoria, was enjoyed until midnight. The proceeds from the evening will be donated to the Saanich Memorial Health Centre.

Hallowe'en Party

LANGFORD, Oct. 27.—A Hallowe'en party will be held in the schoolroom on Friday evening, commencing at 7 o'clock. The teachers, Miss P. Sutton and Miss Peacey, are preparing a programme of games for the entertainment of pupils and their parents. Refreshments will be provided. A collection is to be taken up during the evening towards the piano fund.

Keating Personal News

KEATING, Oct. 27.—The girls of the Rooked Beach Junior Institute Club are busy rehearsing for a concert which will be held with a dance on Friday evening, November 13, at Temperance Hall. A one-act play, entitled "How He Proposed," and several good songs and regulations will be features of the programme, and Pitter's two-piece orchestra will supply the music for the dance.

A Hallowe'en entertainment will be given by the hall management at Temperance Hall on Friday evening, October 30. A jolly evening is anticipated as a concert, card game and dance is arranged for the evening, and refreshments will be served. The players in the card game will be allowed to choose their own partners. The Young People's Club will meet in the Union Church parlor on Monday evening, November 2. The meeting will be in charge of the religious committee, and Mr. Bailey has been asked to give a talk on "Religion." A very interesting meeting is expected. The young people have undertaken the Sunday morning service on November 1, and all arrangements have been made for a very good service. Choir practice will be held on Thursday evening for all members of the Young People's Club.

The sympathy of the district is extended to Miss G. Hansen who recently received word of the death of her father, Captain Hansen, of Hildesberg, Cape Town, South Africa. The late Captain Hansen was a visitor to the Coast three years ago.

Mr. Herman Fisher was a visitor to the home of Mrs. L. Hafer, Central Saanich Road, over the week-end.

The South Saanich Women's Institute will hold the first of the Winter season of social afternoon meetings at Temperance Hall on November 5. The descriptive trip across

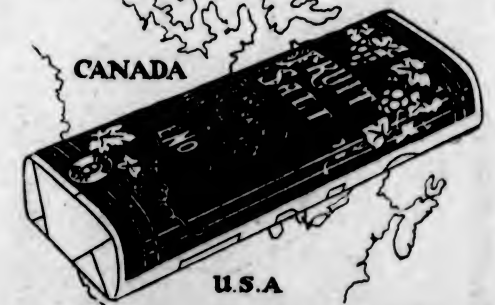

Prizes to Be Given at Hallowe'en Party At Strawberry Vale

STRAWBERRY VALE, Oct. 27.—Arrangements completed for the annual Hallowe'en party, under the auspices of the Strawberry Vale Women's Institute, to be held in Strawberry Vale Hall, Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock, promise an evening of frolic and fun not only for the young folk but for their parents and friends, to whom the ladies of the institute extend a hearty invitation to participate.

Dance Held at Metchoshin

METCHOSHIN, Oct. 27.—The second of the series of dances given by Mrs. George Simpson, of Victoria, was held at Metchoshin Hall, Monday night, but, owing to the bad weather, the attendance was not as large as usual. The music was supplied by Ray Kinloch's three-piece orchestra. The next of the series will be held at Luxton, Monday, November 2.

ENO across the Border

You can buy ENO in the United States from 60,000 Druggists, department and general stores. Across the border its fame has spread rapidly and it is steadily taking its place as the "health drink" of the people of that country. This fact, together with the fact that ENO is sold wherever civilization has penetrated, is proof of the universal approval enjoyed by this famous British product.

Muscle Shoals

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—The mud of axes and the crash of $9,000 fees on the banks of the Osage River near Bagnell, Mo., will herald the construction of a dam that will impound a lake more than 100 miles long and have 970 miles of shore line.

Through the sluices will rush the wintry waters of the Osage River to turn five turbines each generating 25,000 horsepower of electricity to visit

The lake, to be created will have 180,000 acre-feet of storage capacity, much more than the Elephant Butte reservoir. The turbines will produce most as much primary power as does Muscle Shoals.

The Missouri Hydro Electric Company, which will build the dam, also purchased land for the erection of no other power plants about 100 miles south on the Current River. The officers say will produce 800 horsepower. Linked with the Osage River plant, 183,000 horsepower will be produced, if the projects are completed for transmission through Missouri.

At Hannibal, an old Missouri town, an almost unchanging population of about 500 persons will be inundated in the Osage reservoir. The power company expects to build a new town for Linn Creek people on a nearby hill.

The power plant and dam will be largely of local materials. A large deposit of gravel will be used for the concrete with limestone blocks, taken from ledges on the property. Steel reinforcing will be used, dam will rest upon limestone which has been drilled 342 feet with penetration.

Taxpayers to Pay Triple Price for Courthouse

SEATTLE, Oct. 27.—Taxpayers are going to pay three times the actual cost of the obsolete King county courthouse built in 1889, printed in one of the 1926 county budget records.

A new county-city building constructed in 1914, but financed under a 1915 plan is to be paid for in 1934, three years after the old obligation

The original bond issue for the old courthouse was for $200,000 to run forty years at five per cent. In February 1, 1911, the county had paid in principal $15,333. The balance of $184,667, including nothing on the principal, in 1911 $183,300 was refunded with all bonds of $10,000 maturing each for twenty years at an interest of four and one-half per cent. Since then the county has paid $183,300 with interest for old courthouse bond retirement. Interest on the second issue will amount to $100, making the total interest on the two issues $283,333, and to the $200,000 principal, it was the total aggregate debt total $233.

Records show that the cost of construction of the old courthouse was $448

Prices Suffer General Drop

Widespread Reaction Interpreted as Correction of Weakened Technical Position

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Reactionary tendencies became more pronounced in today's stock market, net losses of one to nearly five points being spread over a rather broad list.

Except for continuance of relatively stiff call money rates, there was nothing in the day's news to bring about the reaction, which was generally accepted as a natural correction on a weakened technical position.

The quarterly statement of the United States Steel Corporation, which was issued after the market closed, was unusually favorable, net earnings of $4,300,412 for the three months ended September 30, comparing with $4,024,221 in the preceding quarter and $3,713,415 in the third quarter of 1924. United States Steel common, which sold yesterday at 13 1/2, the highest price since the war, sold down to 12 3/4 today for a net loss of one to two points.

Motorists gave another impressive demonstration of strength. Chrysler showed an extreme gain of more than eight points at 22 1/2, a new record top, and then retreated to 21 3/4.

Rails fell back in sympathy with the industrials. Specialties to which public attention has been attracted by reports of large current earnings were bid up in spirited fashion.

Call money opened at 4 1/2, and then advanced to 5 per cent. Time money rates hardened slightly, quoted at 1 1/2 to 5, instead of between 4 1/2 and 5. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Total sales were 2,546,700 shares. Waning interest in the bond market caused partly by tighter money conditions and partly by the greater speculative attraction of stock trading, brought the price movement virtually to a standstill today.

The undertone generally was steady, but liquidation of French issues followed the fall of the Poincaré cabinet and sugar company obligations generally encountered selling pressure as the price of raw sugar fell below two cents a pound.

Bulls Get Control Of Wheat Market

Prices Start Skyward at Winnipeg—Heavy Trading Reported in All Months

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27.—The "bulls" had control of the wheat pit here today and with active short covering in October and general speculative demand prices started skyward early in the session, closing 2 1/2 to 4 cents higher. October led the advance, closing at 1 1/2 1/2, and at the high of the day touched 1 3/4. November gained 2 1/2 cents and closed at 1 1/4. There was a heavy trade reported in all months, with speculative interest particularly active in December wheat. The short covering was said to be largely for New York and Eastern account. Offerings continued very light and buying is difficult without forcing upward. There was heavy trading during the day, selling of Winnipeg and buying Chicago futures. The market opened a little lower, then turned up to yesterday's close; later broke a cent under and then the wave of buying started which carried prices to the new high levels.

Some Government Officials Do Not Appear Yet Aware of Western Grain Shipments

In an advertisement published in all the daily newspapers of Alberta by the Dominion Government Elevator Service, the port of Vancouver is absolutely ignored as a wheat-shipping point, says The Vancouver Province.

The advertisement reproduced herewith, is an appeal to grain growers to ship their grain to the "nearest Canadian Government elevator," but Vancouver apparently is not recognized by the Federal authorities as having any elevators.

It will be noticed that the advertisement states that terminal elevators are in existence at Prince Rupert, Halifax and Port Arthur, although the first named is only under construction.

Not Mentioned

Vancouver's fine elevators find no place in this Government picture. They are non-existent, so far as this advertisement is concerned. On the contrary, Port William is urged as the logical place to receive Western grain. The advertisement takes it for granted that Western wheat must go East and Mackenzie King officials make no attempt to bring before Western farmers the fact that Vancouver is the natural outlet for Western wheat and that this port has any facilities.

"Write to the Canadian Government elevators at Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon or Moose Jaw or Port William for full information," says the advertisement.

"The tenure of the entire document is to force the Port William route on the farmer. Every reference to grain shipping brings in Port William and calmly ignores Vancouver."

Port Overlooked

"It costs less for freight to ship your grain to an interior Government elevator, there to be dried, cleaned and graded, weighed and officially certified before being shipped to Port William than it does to ship it direct," reads one clause.

"You pay freight on the long haul from the interior elevator to Port William for your grain and your grain only," says another sentence.

Apparently Mackenzie King's officials have not yet awak-

Ship Your Grain to the Nearest Canadian Government Elevator

It's cheaper to store your grain in an interior Government Elevator than it is to store it in the terminal elevators at the head of the lake.

It costs less for freight to ship your grain to an interior Government Elevator, there to be dried, cleaned, graded, weighed and officially certified before being shipped on to Port William, than it does to ship it direct.

Because, first—Government interior storage only costs 1/2 cent a bushel per month—half as much as regular lakeport storage.

Because, second—you pay freight on the long haul from the Government interior elevator to Port William for your grain, and your grain only. All the excess moisture, the dirt, the weed seeds and chaff have been taken out of it. You save money in freight charges.

Your grade and weight are certified by responsible Dominion Government officials, who are entirely independent of the elevator organization.

Write to Canadian Government Elevators at Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon or Moose Jaw, or to the Head Office, 311 Grain Exchange, Port William, for full information.

workers of Canada," said Mr. Meighen.

Fair Deal for Workers

"Mr. Euler's campaign literature declares I have come out with the statement that I would have no truck or trade with Britain."

"This is a mere paraphrase of the truck and trade with the Yankee slogan. Yes, we want to trade with the Yankees, but on fair terms. We want to trade with the British, too, but on fair terms also," said Mr. Meighen.

"We have textile machinery in Canada, enough to produce $100,000,000 worth of textiles a year, and at the same time we are buying $125,000,000 of textiles from outside every year. Is it worth while? Is it a good policy to keep our own textile factories idle while we buy all their goods from the United States and elsewhere? To those directly engaged in the textile industry in Kitchener I address my words. Have they benefited from the legislation of the Government kept in power by Mr. Euler's vote?"

Victory Near

BRAMPTON, Oct. 27.—Alluding to Premier Mackenzie King as "a Prime Minister of long promises," Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen declared this afternoon that never was there a campaign when the current seemed so impeded and the harbor of victory so near for his party as in this.

The Liberal Government, said Mr. Meighen, had partly implemented their pledges to the Progressives during three years, because they were compelled to, with the result that the reductions made on agricultural implements resulted in increasing the price to the consumer.

Mr. Massey Uses Crowbar

"No good came to anyone, much less the farmer, through such reductions," said the Conservative leader. Mr. Meighen said the agricultural industry did not suffer because Mr. Massey "went to the door of the Cabinet, crowbar in hand," and secured free entry from abroad of the materials that went into the manufacture of farm implements.

"Mr. Massey is in favor of preference for his own product. There are many of his type. More than a half of the Liberals in Parliament are protectionists. They are all in favor of preference for something."

All Protectionists

"Even Mr. Parker would protect fruit, because he is running for Peel. Yet his party is on record as favoring free entry for foodstuffs."

Mr. Meighen declared there was a "Progressive in the West, living in the coal area, and he was a protectionist on coal."

"We have either to have a protectionist policy or not in Canada, and if we have one, it must function adequately for the farm, the mine, and the factory alike."

Dominion Gets More Gold From New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The present movement of gold to Canada reached $12,000,000 today, with an additional shipment of two millions by the New York Trust Company. This brings the trust company's consignment of gold to Canada up to $7,000,000, the balance of the total having been sent by local branches of the Canadian banks to their Montreal headquarters.

Bank of England Ships Chicago Million in Gold

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—One million dollars in gold from the Bank of England was shipped on the steamer Homeric, commanded by Lieut. J. H. Merchants' Trust Company at Chicago. This is the first of a number of gold shipments. These importations represent a part of the balance of credit balances abroad, arising from the payment of foreign commercial loans made early in the year, and are something of an innovation in Chicago's foreign banking operations.

Mobbed in Peru

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Charging that they had been mistreated by police and a mob in Oroya, Peru, because of suspected sympathy with Chile in the Tacna-Arica dispute, Ernest Caldwell, of Pecon, Texas, and Gladstone Gillette, of San Francisco, arrived today aboard the Pacific Navigation liner Ebro.

Storm Causes Two Deaths

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 27.—Partial restoration of telephone and telegraphic communication with outside points brought in today the first news of tragedies resulting from the hurricane which struck Newfoundland over the week-end and caused at least two deaths, heavy losses to shipping and disruption of public services in many places.

Man Loses Memory

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—A man of about seventy-five years of age was taken to St. Paul's Hospital suffering from loss of memory. He said his last name was Crett, and he had no first name. He said he lived 2,000 miles from here, but could not say where.

Vancouver Ignores Holiday

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—Thursday afternoon will be a half-holiday in Vancouver and stores may remain open Wednesday afternoon. This announcement was made by Mayor I. D. Taylor today, following long distance discussions between J. B. Williams, city solicitor, and the Deputy Attorney-General at Victoria.

Missing Girl Found

SEATTLE, Oct. 27.—A sixteen-year-old girl who disappeared from her home in Port Angeles ten days ago, was rescued here by detectives from a house operated by a half-caste Japanese woman in Seattle's underworld, frequented by negroes. The woman and three men, one a negro, were arrested.

After challenging jurymen after jurymen, who had to leave the box, the prisoner leant over to his solicitor and whispered: "The jury's all right now, I think, but ye must challenge the judge; I've been convicted under him aivert times already, and maybe he's beginning to have a prejudice."

"Sure! I know twice, the poor sap, but you can't learn him nothin'."

Customs Conference Begins China Work

Dr. C. T. Wang Named Chairman—Delegates Discuss Agenda of Parley

PEKING, Oct. 27.—The chiefs of the delegations to the Chinese customs conference met today to discuss the conference agenda. Dr. C. T. Wang, who represented the Chinese delegation, was named chairman of the meeting upon the proposal of the Dutch representative.

Questions to come before the conference were divided under three headings: tariff autonomy, provisional measures covering any interim period, and related matters. Separate committees were named to consider questions under each heading. The meeting adjourned without setting a date for its next session.

tures and further that all surplus money should be devoted to necessary extension of service.

Instantly that Wignip alone had lost 25,000 of its citizens in the last four years, the former Premier asked what hope Canada had of life, side by side with the greatest productive country in the world when that country could dump its surplus products over a low tariff wall, while Canada was faced with an almost insurmountable one on the United States side.

Progressives Get Right of Way

Touching upon what he called the Liberal chances of having a working majority, "in the unlikely event of their being returned at all," Mr. Meighen declared there were eighteen seats in Ontario alone in which no Liberal was running, but in which Liberals had called on the Progressives to help them; that the case was similar on the Prairies and that there were even three in the extreme West.

"Are these Progressives likely to support any measure of protection? Do you know one Liberal on the Prairies who is willing to tolerate protection?" Yet, Mr. Meighen added, many Liberals in the House of Commons were protectionists.

"I never was an advocate of low wages and cheap living," Mr. Meighen said. "And the way to get adequate wages is to place protective tariffs on our goods across the whole sweep of Canadian industry."

"I believe the British preference is wrong in principle and unjust to the

TUBERCULOSIS RAPIDLY DECLINING

Vital statistics prove it. Tuberculosis is not now considered the absolutely fatal disease it was 25 years ago. If it is taken in hand early, the modern treatment is not drug treatment, but dietetic, sanitary and hygienic. If proper foods, cleanliness, fresh air and sunshine can cure tuberculosis they surely can prevent its onset. And if these can prevent the onset of such a terrible disease they surely can also prevent the onset of most other diseases. And, since food is that out of which bodies, good or bad, are made, food must surely be the most important. And Food Science agrees that the most essential foods are the unchanged foodstuffs of nature. Science lays a large share of the blame for so much disease upon the extensive use of white flour and refined "ghost cereals" from which the mineral salts, fats and vitamins have been foolishly refined away, and without these there can be no permanent health.

Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal is a natural, unrefined whole grain product, made from whole wheat, whole rye, flax and bran. It compensates the deficiencies of white flour, "ghost cereals," etc., and reinforces your health. Its growth-promoting properties make it especially valuable for nursing and convalescing mothers, and children from the tenth month. It prevents indigestion and positively relieves constipation. Chief Characteristic Described to Students

REV. PROVOST C. A. SEAGER.

Parochial narrow-mindedness, breeding intolerance and false pride, is probably the chief characteristic of the people of the North American continent, according to an opinion expressed by Rev. Provost C. A. Seager, of Trinity College, in an address in the successful students at Lower Canada College on the occasion of the ninety-fifth prize day.
